Committee Passes Drastic Regulations in Effort to Lessen Offenses and Insure Punishment.

NEW RULES OPPOSED
BY CHIEF BEAVERS

Declares That Result in Many Cases Will Be
That Families Will Be Humiliated.

Drastic resolutions, authorizing patrolmen and other arresting officers to designate the amount of collateral to be accepted at police headquarters from defendants; providing that persons released on collateral bonds, who fail to appear when their case is called for trial, be rearrested, and that no fictitious names or addresses be accepted by station lieutenants from prisoners, were unanimously adopted by the council's police committee at its regular session Monday night.

The resolution, submitted by Councilman Fred C. Woodall, committee member, received support from all other members of the committee. Police Chief James L. Beavers voiced objections to the measure, declaring that virtually all of its provisions with the exception of those that permit arresting officers to designate the amount of collateral, were already on the statute books.

Chief Beavers asserted that such a rule would cause untold calamity in homes of persons—married men especially—who were apprehended in questionable dives, or who were taken into custody for drunkenness, and other offenses of such nature.

"The divorce courts are grinding out too many decrees as it is today," declared the chief, "and I believe that such a drastic measure would cause innumerable family differences. For example, if a man should be caught in a questionable resort and should have to give his correct name and address he would be subjected to untold embarrassment from his friends and the chances are that his wife would sue him for divorce."

Councilman Woodall immediately defended his resolution, declaring that its purpose was to bring about a reduction in the number of such offenses.

"That is precisely the intent of the measure," said Councilman Woodall. "There's too much of such misconduct happening in Atlanta now, and if such a law was rigidly enforced and the newspapers gave persons arrested under such circumstances the unfavorable notoriety they deserve

Bridge Collapses And Six Autoists Suffer Injuries

Party Was Coming to Atlanta From Jonesboro
Wednesday Night.

Three women were seriously injured when a bridge on the Jonesboro road, four miles from Dexter's Old Mill, collapsed while they were passing over it in an automobile.

Those hurt were Miss Bonnie Mae Brent and her sister, Mrs. A. H. Waddell, both of Lakewood, and Mrs. R. N. Richardson, of Camp McIlroy. They were carried to Grady hospital.

Mrs. Richardson's daughter, Ruth, Joe Brent and Horace Hembree, of Lakewood, who were also in the machine, suffered severe bruises. The party was coming to Atlanta from Jonesboro. The cause of the collapse of the bridge has not been determined.

BELGIUM FEELS IMPENDING CRISIS ON RUHR INVASION

Uneasiness of Belgian
Manufacturers Swinging Sentiment in Favor of British Point of View.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Paris, June 27.—The attempts of Britain and France to come to an understanding about what to say to Germany in answer to her note, now already three weeks old, have been interrupted by the prolonged ministerial crisis in Belgium.

The cause commonly given for that crisis is the dispute about the Flemish language. But another cause, weighing as much, is Belgian discontent with the occupation of the Ruhr. Belgium imports more than 80 per cent of the wheat she must have for bread. For those imports of wheat she pays with exports of manufacturing goods. The invasion of the Ruhr has interfered with Belgian manufacturers to an extent that makes her uneasy about a possible opinion in Belgium swings steadily to the British point of view about the Ruhr against the French.

But Premier Theunis, the only man of much political power in Belgium, by temperament, and due to circumstances, is fearful of a break with the French government. As soon as Belgium gets a new ministry, British and French negotiations will go on.

Four European nations in one degree or another, and in the order named are headed for trouble because of the Ruhr. Germany is on the verge of an imminent crisis, and steps are already being taken on the assumption that within a short time Germany will need relief from America in the organized way previously furnished to Austria and Russia.

Next to Germany, Belgium is the most menaced, and any prolongation of the Ruhr crisis will bring her to a crisis. Britain has upward of a million of unemployed and her only expectation of relief lies in an ending of the paralysis in the Ruhr. France is not suffering now and does not anticipate trouble, largely because she is practicing credit inflation, feeding herself within her own borders and is trying to limit imports to maintain equilibrium with exports. Everybody knows, however, that complete collapse in Germany will mean ultimately serious economic and financial consequences for France.

But France knows that she is better fixed for a long strain than any of the other nations involved, and her policy of "sitting tight" is based upon that confidence.

Walker to Open WGM's Programs Of Legislature

Widespread Interest Attached to New Departure
In Radio.

Governor-elect Clifford Walker will officially launch the legislative broadcasting program of WGM, the radio-plant of The Constitution, when he delivers his inaugural message to the general assembly in the house of representatives Saturday morning.

Arrangements for installation of a high-powered microphone on the speaker's desk have been completed, and the words of the new chief executive of Georgia will be flashed instantaneously to thousands of his friends throughout the state, who will be "tuned in" to listen to his first official utterance.

Universal interest is attached to the wireless program of the doings of the 1923 legislature in view of the fact that this is the first instance in radio history that such a feat has been undertaken.

From the moment that Governor-elect Walker begins on his address to the general assembly, regular programs of speeches in the house and senate will be offered listeners of WGM. Legislative officials are co-operating in the movement, and splendid results are anticipated by those in charge of the programs.

Keen interest has been evinced in the movement by regular listeners of the "Old Reliable" station, and indications are that the legislative programs will be attended by more widespread attention than any new departure in the radio field of recent months.

Following the inaugural address, the session of the legislature will be broadcast until 12 o'clock, noon, and thereafter every day during the morning and afternoon hours that are assigned to The Constitution by the government as its broadcasting periods.

Leading Georgians Tonight Will Plan New Farming Era

Will Discuss Balanced System of Agriculture in Order to Meet New Conditions.

WILL CARRY ON WORK
OF GEORGE T. BETTS

Senators George and Harris and Governor-Elect
Clifford Walker Will Make Addresses.

Representative Georgians from every section of the state will gather tonight at the Chamber of Commerce building to plan for a new era in Georgia agriculture, and through Georgia's agriculture the state's future prosperity. They will plan for an era of reconstruction—for a balanced system of agriculture in the state, based upon an adaptation of Georgia farming which will make it possible to meet new conditions.

Not only will every section of the state be represented at the meeting, but every variety of interest, agricultural, manufacturing, banking, teaching, professional and business men and women will all join in earnest consideration of how to meet the situation that now confronts the state, and from the meeting will come definite plans for carrying on the work so ably begun by the late George T. Betts.

Response Is General.

The response to the call for the meeting has been remarkably general, and remarkably spontaneous. Literally hundreds of telegrams, letters and long distance phone calls since the call was made have poured into The Constitution office. Editors throughout the state have endorsed the meeting and have added their influence. William G. Sutlive, of Savannah, will preside. He is president of the Georgia association.

Among the speakers will be Senator Walter F. George, Senator William J. Harris, Governor-elect Clifford Walker, Dr. Andrew M. Soule, Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown, Commissioner of Commerce and Labor Hal Stanley, Congress-

Washington, June 27.—A turtle left in the Tonga Islands by Captain James Cook, the English mariner in 1773, was found there last month by Captain E. T. Pollock, governor of American Samoa, according to a report to the navy department. Despite the established proclivity of the species toward records for longevity, the turtle exhibited signs of extreme age. Captain Pollock said, adding that it was "blind and when walking creaks like an ox cart."

From the moment that Governor-elect Walker begins on his address to the general assembly, regular programs of speeches in the house and senate will be offered listeners of WGM. Legislative officials are co-operating in the movement, and splendid results are anticipated by those in charge of the programs.

TAX COMMISSION PLAN IS TABLED IN LOWER HOUSE

Body to Investigate All Phases of Problem Asked in Resolution Introduced by Toombs Dubose.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Opening of the 1923 session of the Georgia general assembly, on Wednesday, was marked by an unsuccessful attempt to dispose of the taxation problem for the time being and, otherwise, by a remarkable absence of any excitement to mar the routine of organization.

The taxation subject came up in the house when Toombs DuBose, representative from Clarke, introduced a resolution, under special privilege, which would have created a special commission to investigate the tax problems of the state. By Mr. DuBose's resolution, this special committee would have been composed of the chairman of the appropriations committee, the ways and means committee, of the two judiciary committees, of the speaker, ex-officio, and of five other members chosen one from south Georgia, one from middle Georgia, one from north Georgia and two from the state at large.

Explains Measure.
Mr. DuBose explained the purpose of the committee would be to hold public hearings at which any individuals, corporations or other organizations desiring to be heard on the general subject of taxation, could state their case. Any bill, or amendment to the constitution, which the committee might introduce, would have to take its course through the proper committee before presentation to the house, he explained.

Strong opposition to this resolution developed, led by Representative Stovall, of Elbert, and by an overwhelming vote the resolution was tabled.

W. Cecil Neill, of Muscogee, was elected speaker of the house without opposition and George Carswell, of Irwin, senator from the twenty-first district, was elected president of the senate, likewise without opposition.

Senator W. W. Mundy, of Cedar-town, who was a candidate for the presidency of the senate up to the last minute, withdrew from the race Wednesday morning before the opening of the session.

R. B. Russell, Jr., of Barrow, was elected speaker pro tem without opposition, and Senator James Gillis, of the sixteenth district, was named president pro tem of the senate, also without an opponent.

Members of Legislature Invited To Attend Conference Tonight

Members of the general assembly of Georgia are invited and urged to attend and participate in the state-wide conference of outstanding men and women of Georgia, called for the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms this evening to study farm and rural conditions in the state, and to stimulate interest in such readjustments as labor and soil weevil conditions demand.

No citizens are more keenly interested than legislators, whose responsibilities are great.

There will be short addresses by a number of leading men and women in the state, including both United States senators, several members of congress, practical business men, farmers and so on.

The session will be snappy. Hon. W. G. Sutlive, president of the Georgia Press association, will preside.

The gavel will fall promptly at 8 o'clock.

It is an open forum—an unselfish, non-political undertaking of service. There are no issued invitations; every person who is really interested is invited.

FOREIGN LINERS CONTINUE EFFORT TO BREAK DRY LAW

Three Vessels in Port
With Liquor on Board
Under Seal of Respective Governments.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, June 28.—Three more foreign liners, the Chicago of the French line, the Olympic of the White Star, and the Cunarder Saxonia, arrived in port today under their return supplies of liquor under government seals. This brings to thirteen the total of arrivals to test the recent treasury department ruling prohibiting the carrying of liquor into United States ports. Of these the seals of only four have been broken so far. They are the Baltic, the Berengaria, the Paris and the Cedric.

No seizures were made today, and shipping officials predicted that if hasty action were not taken some of the liners would be kept in port over their schedules.

The latest arrival, the Saxonia, which came through quarantine late today, carried under the British crown seal 69 1/2 gallons of wine, 110 1/2 gallons of spirits and 3,501 bottles of ale and stout. This is the fourth vessel of the White Star line to test the ruling.

Representatives of lines here said today that the problem would be left for solution to diplomatic agents in Washington. They refused to comment on reports from Washington that a regulation prohibiting the bringing of liquor into United States ports under penalty of seizure of the ship as a liquor carrier, and arrest of her captain, had been agreed upon.

Lightning Hits Mast.
The Finland, of the American line, arrived with nothing but her medicinal liquor supplies, having dumped her excess before crossing the three-mile limit. Just as the liquor was heaved over the side a bolt of lightning struck one of the masts. Superstitious seamen consider this an omen of disapproval of such waste.

The Paris sailed out with her broken seals still hanging to the wine room door, and 12,000 pints of wine and spirits on board, allowed for medicinal purposes by Dr. E. K. Sprague, public health officer here.

Reports from London intimate that the failure of foreign vessels to get through the customs offices with return supplies had discouraged line officials, and that several liners were putting out with only one way supplies of drinks.

GIANT AIR FLEET IS NOT OBJECTIVE OF UNITED STATES

Intention of Britain to Double Air Force Not to Be Followed by War Department.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, June 27.—The United States does not contemplate a great increase in its air fleet such as has been announced by Great Britain, which purposes to double its forces, it was said today at the war department.

Instead, Secretary Weeks is understood to take the position that the army air service should continue to pioneer the way in development of new types of improved military quality rather than to attempt under the present condition of national finances to maintain equality with a particular nation.

Majority of Records.

It was emphasized that the American policy does not rest upon any particular ratio of strength for the flying corps as compared with other nations. The American air service does not at present compare in size with the French. It does, however, hold a great majority of the air records of the world, all established with machines designed and built since the war, and under the supervision of the air service.

War department officials, it was said, feel that the best policy to follow under present conditions, is to exert every effort in the advancement of scientific knowledge and design in order that there would be available practical plans for superior aircraft on which a war fleet could be constructed in case of need.

Oppose Big English Force.

London, June 27.—Opposition to the government's proposal for increasing the British air force was expressed at today's conference of the labor party by George Lansbury, member of parliament, who announced that he would move the following resolution later in the session.

"That the proposed increase of the British air force in competition with France is a preface to a new era of war, and the labor party calls on the parliamentary labor party to offer every resistance, declaring it a crime against humanity to promote this race in armaments within five years of the late war which the peoples of the world hoped was the beginning of an era of peace and disarmament."

Meanwhile at Derby, the Earl of Birkenhead in an address declared that if he understood the facts right the government's proposals would still leave England with 300 airplanes less than would be at the disposal of France. However, he accepted the government's statement that if the present proposal did not prove adequate it would be rectified.

?Why the Weather?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS,
Secretary American Meteorological Society, Discusses:

Distance of Lightning.

The distance of lightning from the observer may be quickly calculated by the lapse of time between the flash and the hearing of its accompanying clap of thunder. Light travels so rapidly that the flash registers on the eye almost instantaneously. Sound travels only about 1,100 feet a second, or approximately a mile in five seconds. Therefore, counting the seconds elapsing between the flash and the thunder makes reckoning of distance easy. A second is easily counted by saying some such words as "one chimpanzee" moderately fast; a few experiments with a watch will give accurate rhythm. This method is used by many photographers in determining exposures.

Thunder may be heard a distance of 10 miles, rarely more than that excepting under most favorable conditions. Ten miles means a lapse of 50 seconds from the instant of the lightning flash.

Atlanta and Boston Will Share Honors Through Agreement Reached After Long Fight.

PLAN WAS PROPOSED BY LOCAL INSTITUTION

Currency Will Continue to Be Handled as at Present Through Jacksonville Branch.

The Atlanta and Boston federal reserve banks will each open an agency in Cuba as a result of a decision by the federal reserve board Wednesday in approving the terms of a compromise between the two banks, according to advices from Washington received here Wednesday. The decision ends a long controversy between Atlanta and Boston which followed the application by the Boston bank for the privilege of opening an agency in Cuba.

The terms of the compromise, approved Wednesday by the federal reserve board in Washington, were first proposed by the Atlanta bank and were accepted by the Boston bank. They provide that each institution shall have its own agency in Cuba to co-operate with each other. The Boston bank will handle exchange and acceptances and allied business while the Atlanta bank will furnish the money to handle it.

Will Take Definite Steps.

Definite steps to carry out the terms of the compromise will be taken by the board of directors of the Atlanta bank at the next regular meeting, July 19, it was announced Wednesday by Governor M. B. Wellborn, of the Atlanta bank. Men from the Atlanta organization will probably be sent to Cuba to open the agency. Currency will continue to be handled, as at present, through the Jacksonville branch of the Atlanta bank. The circulating media of Cuba now includes $40,000,000 of Atlanta federal reserve bank notes. American money is the Cuban standard.

Washington Dispatch.

Washington, June 27.—The federal reserve board late today granted the application of the Boston Federal Reserve bank to establish an agency in Cuba. At the same time the board allowed the Atlanta Reserve bank the same privileges in order to compromise differences which had arisen as a result of protests from the Atlanta bank against the Boston application.

The action of the board was made known in a formal statement which recounted the difficulties encountered in working out a settlement of the question which for some time has been in controversy. Half a dozen hearings were held by the board and each time representatives of the Atlanta bank were present to protest against the Boston application. The New York reserve bank also went on record at one meeting in opposition to the application made by Governor Harding of the Boston institution.

Discussing the problem with which it has had to deal, the board's statement explained that, because of the provisions of the Platt amendment, American financial relations with Cuba were unique. The situation was

Woman Is Found Guilty of Murder In First Degree

New York, June 27.—Mrs. Anna Buzzi was found guilty of the murder of Frederick Schneider, wealthy Bronx contractor by a supreme court jury tonight.

She was found guilty of first degree murder. The jury had been out for more than ten hours, but late this afternoon had sent in a request to Justice O'Malley for transcripts of the testimony in the trial.

Mrs. Buzzi turned white and sagged forward when the verdict was read, but was caught by the attendants before she collapsed. She was revived a few minutes later and was led from the court room in a dazed condition.

Sentence will be pronounced on July 9 and as the verdict was first degree murder without recommendations, it is expected she will be sentenced to death.

Schneider was found dead in his automobile with two bullets in the back of his head on a lonely road in the Bronx late in the afternoon of February 26. Nick Fullmer, a farmer, heard pistol shots and saw a woman emerge from the machine and walk rapidly away.

Mrs. Buzzi with whom Schneider had lived for several years, declared she had been at her apartment in the afternoon and after lunching with her brother-in-law, William Tuier, a taxi driver, that he had given her a revolver and that she had threatened to kill Schneider on several occasions.

Triangular coffins, the body being placed in a sitting position, were used by some ancient Greeks.

CONFERENCE VOICES PLEA FOR FAIRNESS

Milwaukee, Wis., June 27.—The holding over aloft of the obligation to be fair, as opposed to the forcing of economic pressure for monetary gain, was voiced as the purpose of the Catholic conference on industrial problems, tonight, by David A. McCabe, of Princeton university, as president of the conference.

"We do not presume to lay down here exactly what is fair in any particular case," said Professor McCabe, "fairness must first be honestly sought before it can be found. We look forward with high hope to the results that will follow when all religiously minded people give their hearts and minds to the search for justice in industrial affairs."

While the "binding force of ethical obligations in industrial relationship" was stressed by the conference, an effort was being made, said the president, to comprehend the practical problems that confront the parties in the complex industrial life of today, by getting the viewpoint of men and women from all sections of the economic life, whom he said, were present at the conference.

Speaking on the subject "collective bargaining" late this afternoon, John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, declared that there can be no peace where the "dog eat dog" relation of man to man is permitted to prevail. This is particularly true of the relations between employer and employee, he said, and as proof of the assertion, pointed to the fact that the "more war-like and ruthless of the labor fighting employers have developed a super-dreadnaught of industrial warfare called the individual contract whereby employees are required before securing employment to sign a pledge that they will not join a labor union, but will maintain direct individual relations with their bosses."

ST. LOUIS HOLDS LEAD IN RACE UP MISSISSIPPI

Memphis, Tenn., June 27.—Noon reports today showed the St. Louis maintaining a 26-mile lead over the Cairo in the New Orleans to St. Louis tow boat race with the St. Louis, which has left the Cairo 764 miles above New Orleans, and the Cairo at Wynoke, 733 miles from the starting point.

St. Louis passed Memphis early today.

Carona is 17 miles above Memphis and Wynoke 9 miles south of this city. Memphis is approximately 450 miles south of St. Louis.

Anglo-Chilean Combine Forcing Nitrate Prices

Washington, June 27.—A combination of British and Chilean interests is controlling prices and production of nitrate and forcing the United States, which buys half of the nitrate exported from Chile, to pay higher prices than are warranted, according to Charles J. Brand, marketing specialist of the department of agriculture. After a study of the situation in Europe, Mr. Brand has made a report in which he asserts that control of prices for Chile nitrates practically rests with a London committee made up of representatives of British nitrate houses.

"In consequence of the existence of a producers' association, controlling about 97 per cent of the output, and the methods of operation pursued thereunder," says Mr. Brand, "competition which might force efficiency and economy in the production of the fertilizer is virtually eliminated, and the United States is left without any say as to the price. The present method of price fixing affords no incentive to efficient production, and thus keeps prices higher than they need be."

"In theory the price fixing is done by a committee in Chile, but in reality by a London subcommittee, whose recommendations are almost invariably adopted. Unless continued, association will expire January 10 next. It is the belief of the British trade that the life of the association will be extended. The association has performed some useful services, but the general effect of its price-fixing arrangement is injurious to nitrate consumers."

"The importance of the Chile nitrate trade to the United States appears from the fact that its consumption for agricultural purposes alone has been as high as 300,000 tons in a single year. The total consumption by the United States last year was 735,000 tons, out of a world consumption of 1,850,000 tons."

IMMIGRANT QUOTAS SLIGHTLY CHANGED

Washington, June 27.—Only slight changes from the allotments of the past year are shown in regulations promulgated today by the labor department fixing the number of immigrants of the various nationalities who will be admitted to the United States under the "quota" law during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The quotas for the foreign countries who ordinarily send the largest number of immigrants show no change. Out of the total of 84,843 who will be admitted, the same as for 1922-23, the allotment for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland remains at 77,342, that for Germany again is 6,607, and that for Italy is unchanged at 42,057.

The changes made for the smaller countries resulted mainly from territorial readjustments in Europe. Turkey as a result of the Turco-Greek war, is given 206 more than the 2,388 allotted this year, while Greece loses 231, making her total for the coming year 3,063. Poland's quota is increased to 30,977 from 21,076 through the inclusion of the Pisk region in white Russia and eastern Galicia. The Russian quota is increased to 21,405 from 21,613. Bessarabia now being merged in the total. The French quota remains unchanged at 5,729.

Excluded for the first time, represented as a separate country, is given a quota of 18, thereby reducing the African quota from 122 to 104.

WOMAN APPEALS FOR PROTECTION AFTER WHIPPING

Douglas, Ga., June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—At least one white woman of this county, Zilla Rawlins, has appealed to Governor Hardwick for protection, following a number of beatings administered to women during the last few days.

Zilla Rawlins is not the mother of Milton Rawlins, paroled this week by Governor Hardwick. It was stated tonight by Sheriff Tanner.

The sheriff stated that he has placed six men under bond in connection with the whippings. The three women flagged are Mary Adams, "Sissie" Rawlins and Mary High-tower.

Some of the women are reported to be in a serious condition. All are under care of doctors.

KLAN SPEAKER FORCED TO STOP SPEECH IN DENVER

Denver, Col., June 27.—Rice W. Mans, director of public safety, tonight stopped a meeting being held in the municipal auditorium at which Dr. G. C. Minor, from the headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan, Atlanta, Ga., was to have been the principal speaker.

a Klan lecture, and several thousand men and women had assembled in the auditorium. Dr. Minor appeared alone on the stage and said that if anyone who objected to his proposed lecture would stand up and say so that he would not speak.

Father Walsh, of the Church of Immaculate Conception, was the first to stand and voice objection.

Father Walsh was attired in the uniform of an army chaplain.

"All right," said Dr. Minor, "if you object I will not speak."

Others jumped to their feet, some protesting the proposed talk and others expressing a desire to hear it.

In the confusion, Safety Director Means took the floor and called off the meeting, declaring that he had promised to forbid the address if objection to it was raised.

Dr. Minor was escorted from the stage door by a detail of police, but there was no demonstration.

TWO GOVERNORS PLAN TO ATTEND S. A. E. BANQUET

Members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity who expected to attend the dinner in honor of Governor-elect Clifford M. Walker at the Capital City club at 9:30 o'clock Friday evening are requested to make their reservations promptly, applying to Cobb C. Torrance, secretary of the Atlanta Alumni association, 1032 Tinsley Bldg.

All arrangements have been completed for this event which will be unique in that it will bring together the governor and the governor-elect of adjoining states, both members of the same fraternity. Governor William W. Brandon, of Alabama, honorary eminent supreme archon of the fraternity will be present as its official representative to present to Governor-elect Walker a diamond badge as the gift of the fraternity and will be the chief speaker of the evening. Robert P. Jones, president of the Atlanta Alumni association, will preside. The dinner will be entirely informal. Reservations already made with Mr. Torrance indicates a large attendance.

Atlantan Drowns In Cahaba River Near Birmingham

Birmingham, Ala., June 27.—While swimming in the Cahaba river near Birmingham this afternoon, Louis C. Bonde, of Atlanta, was drowned and Karl G. Faulkner, his brother-in-law, narrowly escaped drowning in an effort to save him. Mr. Bonde and his wife were members of a swimming party which went to the river for an afternoon outing.

Louis C. Bonde, who was drowned near Birmingham, was one of the head office men for the Mot-Southern company here, and, according to J. R. Horne, general manager of the company, was one of its most valued employees. "Mr. Bonde had been with us about three years, and was held in high esteem by the officials of our company and by all who knew him," Mr. Horne stated to a Constitution reporter. "We brought him to Atlanta from Birmingham, his native town, three years ago," Mr. Horne added. Mr. Bonde had gone to visit relatives and friends in Birmingham while on his vacation, Mr. Horne said. Dr. Daniel C. O'Keefe, for whom the school is named, introduced in city council in 1909 the resolution providing for establishment of public schools here and for that reason has been known as the father of the Atlanta public school system.

Masons Will Direct Cornerstone Laying Of O'Keefe School

The cornerstone of the Daniel O'Keefe Junior High school on Techwood drive will be laid at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon with exercises in honor of the event and the man for whom the school was named. The Masonic order will be in general charge, under personal direction of Joe P. Bowdoin, grand master. H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of schools, will act as master of ceremonies in the absence of Superintendent Willis A. Sutton.

Addresses will be made by Mayor Walter A. Sims, W. W. Gaines, president of the school board, and Dr. E. L. Connally. Dr. Daniel C. O'Keefe, for whom the school is named, introduced in city council in 1909 the resolution providing for establishment of public schools here and for that reason has been known as the father of the Atlanta public school system.

ATLANTA MAN HEADS POWER CONFERENCE

Asheville, N. C., June 27.—The Southern Appalachian Water Power conference at its closing session here today voted to accept its executive committee's plan for reorganization in order to broaden the scope of its work and hereafter will be known as the Southern Appalachian Power conference. H. L. Wills, of Atlanta, was elected president of the new organization.

The new constitution and by-laws were adopted and the officers elected by the committee. The officers elected under this authority are as follows: H. L. Wills, Atlanta, Ga., president; C. Edgar Jadin, Charleston, S. C., vice president; J. A. Switzer, Knoxville, Tenn., secretary; Thorndyke Saville, Chapel Hill, N. C., treasurer; Dr. Joseph H. Pratt, Chapel Hill, N. C., chairman of the executive committee; P. A. Tilley, Raleigh, chairman energy supply committee; Wilbur Nelson, Nashville, Tenn., chairman legislation committee; and J. S. Holmes, Chapel Hill, chairman of forestry relations committee.

H. L. Wills has been special engineer for the Georgia Railway and Power company for a number of years. During the past two years, in addition to his work with the power company, he has been doing research work for the National Electric Light association. Mr. Wills is one of the leading electrical engineers of the country.

Woman's Club Will Celebrate Fourth of July

Celebration of the Fourth of July with a spectacular demonstration and program in Piedmont park has been arranged by the American citizenship department of the Atlanta Woman's club. It was announced Wednesday by Mrs. R. M. Striplin, chairman of arrangements.

All civic and patriotic organizations of the city will participate in an imposing procession which will march at 5 o'clock in the afternoon from the green behind the Piedmont driving club, around the huge arena of the park and will gather before the speaker's stand, where appropriate exercises will be held.

Rev. W. W. Menninger will open the exercises with the invocation. Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, will explain the purpose of the demonstration. Speeches will be made by Mayor Walter A. Sims, R. E. Harvey and Benjamin Palmer Gaillard.

Mrs. Frank McCann, in charge of the musical feature, has arranged for patriotic songs and a band concert. Mrs. Norman Sharp, vice-president of the club, whose club led the crowd in reciting the American creed. Mrs. R. H. Hankinson will lead in reciting the citizenship pledge. Dean Johnson will offer a prayer for world peace and the benediction.

The Atlanta Woman's club is expected to attend in a body. Others to participate in the celebration will be John Ashley Jones, as marshal of the day; General David C. Shanks and staff of the United States army; Commander John P. Hansen and staff of Spanish War veterans; Confederate veterans, World War veterans, representatives of American Legion, War Mothers, Daughters of American Revolution, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Memorial association, Woman's Auxiliary of G. A. R., League of Women Voters, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Parent-Teacher association, Y. W. C. A., Campfire Girls, Overseas Girls, Boy and Girl Scouts, Kirkwood Circle League, Red Cross society. Disabled soldiers will be honor guests of the occasion.

HARDWICK PLANS TO CONTINUE LAW PRACTICE IN CITY

That he will continue his residence in Atlanta and engage in the practice of law when his official duties with the United States department of justice are not pressing, was the statement of Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, retiring chief executive, Wednesday, in contradiction of rumors that he would move to Washington. Governor Hardwick declared he would divide his time in Washington and Atlanta, and would open an office here with his former law partner, James K. Jordan, under the firm name of Hardwick and Jordan. The governor's formal statement follows:

While I have accepted an appointment with the department of justice of the United States and my service in that capacity will begin on July 1st, yet this does not mean that I will remove to Washington or will relinquish either residence or citizenship in Georgia. On the contrary, I shall continue to maintain my residence in Atlanta, and engage in the general practice of law in Georgia. One of my former law partners, Major James K. Jordan, will be associated with me and we will maintain offices in the Citizens & Southern Bank building in Atlanta, creating in this the general practice of law under the firm name of Hardwick & Jordan. Personally I can not, of course, so long as I am associated with the department of justice, accept any employment in any case which the government of the United States is a party, or before any department of the United States government, and my partnership and practice is limited to that respect.

I expect to be in Atlanta at least half the time, as my entire time will not be required in the performance of my duties at Washington.

HIGH PRAISE GIVEN TO MEALS AT JACOBS'

It was Bill Nye who said, by way of expressing appreciation for good cooking, "all kitchens should be erected in the front yard." One finds it rather an exaggeration to give such free reign to expression yet one often feels impelled to extol the virtues of a chef who prepares a delicious meal. Particularly is this true on the cool balcony at Jacobs' Main Store at Five Points.

Meals here are not prepared according to a fixed schedule to fit a menu card printed weeks in advance. There is a great amount of careful study in the consideration of what people want most. This study is regulated by the season and the temperature. If the weather outside is hot, appetites will be appealed to and satisfied by one kind of food—that which is not "heating" and which will appease the mid-day hunger. If the temperature lowers there are other foods which one will relish.

The average person does not grasp the full extent to which the eye participates as a contributing factor in so far as satisfaction is concerned. Too large a quantity (or too small) upon a dish or plate will cause the appetite to waver in indecision or "spoil a meal" entirely. It is the scientific consideration of these fine points coupled with the selection of food stuffs and the talent of the cook which results in the type of edibles one is served at Jacobs' where care has been taken in placing the tables and chairs with a view to comfort.

Admiral Wright Here to Assist Sailors of Dixie

Admiral A. O. Wright, veteran of the Confederate navy, has arrived in Atlanta in an effort to obtain co-operation on the part of state legislators, municipal and fraternal organizations in his work of re-establishing the records of 6,500 Confederate sailors. Admiral Wright will urge presentation of resolutions, indorsing the movement in the general assembly, which convened Wednesday.

These Confederate sailors, whose deeds have not been perpetuated and whose achievements have not been inscribed on fitting records have passed virtually unnoticed since the ending of the Civil war. Admiral Wright is working to find the records of these men, thereby providing for comfort and recognition for their few remaining years of life.

The few Confederate sailors alive receive no pensions, due to the absence of records. Since the movement to resurrect these records was launched about a year ago all southern states with the exception of Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana, have adopted resolutions indorsing and commending activities along this line.

Following is a copy of the resolutions Admiral Wright plans to present to the Georgia legislature, and which were adopted by the Texas legislature.

Whereas, there were about 6,500 sailors in the Confederate navy from the thirteen Confederate states, averaging 500 from each state, whose records of enlistment, service and discharge were destroyed when Richmond was evacuated; and

Whereas, their survivors find it difficult to secure pensions or gain admission into the soldiers' homes without such records; and

Whereas, there are to be found among the families of their descendants valuable papers consisting of official documents, letters and other data that will enable those records to be established; and

Whereas, Admiral A. O. Wright is now in Texas rescuing such records, which when recovered are to be placed in the historic archives of this state, alongside those of the Confederate soldiers on file there;

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the senate, the house of representatives concurring, that the efforts of Admiral Wright and his surviving associates of the Confederate navy, to rescue such records, be indorsed and commended to the consideration and support of the people of Texas.

Further, that the municipal and patriotic organizations of Texas be requested to assist Admiral Wright by the date and other methods to raise the necessary funds for that purpose, and that all county officials, and all benevolent organizations, make an investigation in their respective localities to ascertain all that can be learned whether they ever lived among them a Confederate sailor, or if so advised the authorities in order that his existence may be investigated and his record established.

"GLOBE TROTTERS" HELD Four Texas Youths Were Headed for Baltimore.

Four youthful globe-trotters are being held by the police for investigation. They were apprehended by Purkey Preston, who discovered them loitering in a field near his home. They gave their names as O. R. Turner, 23; Howard Cantrell, 18; J. H. Hornady, 19, and Raymond Villalaz, 18, and Texas as their home. "We are from Galveston," said Turner. "We are enroute to Baltimore where we hoped to get work to do in shipyards," Turner stated. He added that he only had 40 cents left, while others in the party had similar amounts.

A lot of Cord value depends on the Tread Design

"Geared-to-the-Road" is world's finest tire tread!

NOTICE any Miller Cord you see. It is seldom that you will find one with a worn-out tread. The tough, sturdy Geared-to-the-Road Tread protects the carcass throughout its long life. It gives protection against skidding, and plenty of traction.

Flat Top Tread Rides Squarely on Road

It is made flat to reduce and properly distribute the constant bending and flexing that shortens the life of a round tread tire. It gives 38% more road contact than a round tread. The sharp gears grip the road. The shoulders and side walls absorb hard shocks and wear.

Surgeon's Grade Rubber

Miller Treads are made from surgeon's grade rubber. The same as the rubber which goes into Miller's world standard hospital supplies and rubber sundries. A special process of curing increases the natural strength of the rubber 180%!

Put a Miller Geared-to-the-Road Cord on your car to-day. Watch it save you money—time—trouble. Authorized Miller dealers insure proper treatment.

A Wall Finish that you can send to the laundry

OF COURSE, you can't exactly put your walls through the tubs and hang them out to dry. But you can wash them when Mello-Glossed.

You can't stain them, try as you will. Even ink spots won't stain. Won't, because Mello-Gloss simply seals up a wall's pores and covers it with a lustrous satin-sheened finish that dirt, grease or stains can't get a grip on.

For halls, bath rooms, kitchens—yes and bedrooms—it is a wonderful finish. Comes in a can. Goes on with a brush as easily as butter melts on a hot biscuit. For sale in one store in each town. Drop in and see the colors and the finish itself.

When first applied, it is shiny. But in a month it has mellowed down to a satiny lustrous sheen that you will particularly like.

Save the surface and you save all paint & sand!

JARMAN CHARGED WITH OPERATING STORE ON SUNDAY

Hearing on charges of violating the observance of Sunday against M. B. Jarman, a merchant of Sandy Springs, began Wednesday morning, before Judge E. D. Thomas, in the Fulton superior court. Mr. Jarman is accused of operating his place of business on Sunday. A number of prominent Sandy Springs church people have been subpoenaed as witnesses.

DETECTIVES PROBING SHOOTING OF NEGRO

Police and detectives Wednesday searched for two unidentified white men who engaged in a quarrel about 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, which resulted in James Hollis, negro, being struck by a stray bullet from a pistol of one of the parties.

PART IN SWINDLE DENIED BY BANK

L. T. Carter, cashier of the Farmers & Traders bank, at 239 Peters street, Wednesday denied positively that his bank had conspired with the Floyd Woodward bunco gang in swindling Noah L. Davis, of Clarksville, Ind., who, in a suit filed in Fulton superior court Wednesday, seeks to recover $5,500 and interest at 7 per cent from November 23, 1920, which he claims, he lost to members of the Woodward gang, who were aided and abetted by the bank. Davis alleges in his petition, filed by the law firm of Douglas & Douglas, and William C. Henson, that on November 13, 1920, he deposited in the Farmers and Traders bank $5,100 and a check drawn on a Clarksville, Ind., bank for $400, and that when he attempted to withdraw the money later the bank refused to pay him the amount.

Davis asserts in his petition that he was the victim of an attempt to defraud, originated by J. H. Grant, alias "Kid" Gleason, and one, Douglas, and that the bank conspired and conspired with the two in the alleged plot to swindle him. According to the petition, Davis formed the acquaintance of Douglas in Chattanooga, Tenn. The two came to Atlanta later where he was introduced to Grant by Douglas. In Atlanta, Davis alleges, the two attempted to interest him in some bonds and took him to 25 West Peachtree street, the alleged seat of the bunco operations. He was induced to purchase a small amount of the stock, which he says, earned him a little money. He was then induced to make further purchases and was later required to cover his margin in his stock dealings, he asserts.

Atlanta Clubs Will Entertain Georgia Solons

During their fifty days' stay in Atlanta, members of the general assembly, now in session, will be the recipients of many delightful courtesies, arranged for them by the chamber of commerce in co-operation with other civic organizations in the city.

Co-operating with the chamber of commerce in this enterprising plan are the Retail Merchants' association, Fulton county commissioners, Hotel Men's association, baseball association, theater managers, Women's club, and the Rotary, Kiwanis, Civitan and Lions' clubs.

Among the things provided for these organizations for the comfort and convenience of the legislators are an information booth and telephone service on the second floor of the state capitol, and a special car for the use of the legislators.

'Office Boy Wanted' Causes Near Riot at The Constitution

The city editor needed an office boy. As a consequence, the classified advertising columns of Thursday morning's Constitution announced in modest type and phraseology the fact that applicants should be on hand in the local news department at noon.

At 8 o'clock the news rooms were packed with boys of all ages and types. At 9 o'clock competition became spirited, and a slumbering city editor was routed out of bed by a frenzied telephone bell to inform an industrious youth if he could "get that job."

NEW BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL IN DANGER

Abandonment of the new Boys' High school building plans, or early raising of at least $500,000 more money for carrying them out, loomed as apparent alternatives for the city of Atlanta after an informal and unofficial balancing of accounts at the meeting Wednesday afternoon of the bond commission.

On motion of Judge John S. Candler, chairman of the finance committee of the commission, the finance and school committees were authorized to prepare a joint report on the present actual condition of the school building program. The report will be submitted to the regular meeting of the bond commission at which definite recommendations will be made to council either for reductions in the building program or for raising additional funds.

The financial stringency facing the bond commission is due mainly to the small amount received from the recent sale of school property, to the transfer of the Brown tract from the school to the park department, to the failure to materialize of an item of "savings" in the building program, and the unexpectedly small premium from the sale of bonds.

The amount of the situation is that the bond commission finds its resources to have been overestimated by about $517,000. School building contracts have been let in excess of this amount, which the city now finds itself lacking.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO AID IN DRIVE FOR PARK BONDS

A committee of the business women's league of N. Y. C. A. will today enter actively into the campaign for a $2,000,000 bond issue for a central park and ward parks in Atlanta. The committee was announced Wednesday by Miss Mary E. Phelps, chairman of the business women's division in a statement cordially endorsing the move for more parks as a "vital necessity rather than a luxury."

$90,000 IN DAMAGES ASKED FOR ACCIDENT

Damages suits totaling $90,000 against the Seaboard Air Line railroad were filed Tuesday in the Barrow superior court by Atlanta attorneys representing Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Shaw, for injuries they are said to have received at the Athens crossing, near Winder, when the motor car in which they were riding was struck May 24 by a passenger train of the defendant company. Mr. Shaw brings suit for $50,000 for personal injuries; $15,000 for loss of the services of his wife, and Mrs. Shaw brings suit for $25,000 for personal injuries.

Public Now Prefers Vegetable Laxatives

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin affords prompt relief in a natural way. The public is constantly becoming more discriminating in its choice of things. Those subject to constipation try to learn what makes them constipated, and then avoid it. If constipation persists in spite of all their efforts they take the mildest, most easily tolerated laxative obtainable, and not a drastic physic that upsets them for days afterwards. As over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold a year, a large proportion of the people of this country must believe that this mild vegetable compound is the proper remedy for them, and so it is. No need to take salt waters and powders that dry up the blood; coal-tar drugs in candy form that produce skin eruptions, or calomel that salivates. These drugs are "heroic measures", over-effective, weakening and griping.

The best constipation remedy is the one that moves the bowels without shock to your system, and such a one is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and has been satisfactorily sold for 30 years. Unlike the harsher physics it does not produce a habit, and increased doses are not required; in fact, it so trains the stomach muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

Zonite!

The Greatest of all Antiseptics

What It Is

ZONITE is a concentrated, stabilized and perfected form of the Carrel-Dakin Solution. The Carrel-Dakin Solution is an antiseptic developed during the World War by two eminent scientists. War hospital records show that it reduced amputations and deaths from infection over seventy per cent and saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of desperately wounded men. It has been adopted and is in daily use by the medical profession and in hospitals throughout the civilized world.

By standard laboratory tests Zonite has more than three times the germicidal strength of pure carbolic acid. It has about seventy-five times the germicidal strength of peroxide of hydrogen and forty times the germicidal strength of any solution of carbolic acid, iodine, bichloride of mercury, etc., that can be applied with safety to the human body.

In addition to its high germicidal efficiency, Zonite is non-poisonous, non-irritating, non-caustic and healing. It can be used freely and frequently on the delicate membranes and tissues of the human body without harm.

What It Does

For Preventing Contagious Diseases

Until the discovery of this form of antiseptic, it was impossible to introduce freely into the mouth and nose any antiseptic solution at sufficient strength to destroy disease germs effectively. It is in the prevention of germ diseases, therefore, that Zonite finds one of its greatest fields of usefulness. During epidemics of colds, grippe, scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, sore throat and other respiratory diseases, when every sneeze and draft scatters millions of germs, Zonite should be used frequently as a throat spray and nasal douche.

For Cuts and Wounds

Zonite should be promptly applied to a fresh cut or wound to destroy the germs which cause blood poisoning and other similar forms of infection. In addition to acting as a disinfectant, it will shorten the process of healing and greatly reduce the usual pain and inflammation.

As a Mouth Wash

A solution of one teaspoonful Zonite added to one-quarter glass of water used night and morning as a mouth wash will destroy breath odors and act as an excellent preventive against pyorrhea. Dental authorities have stated that the daily use of Zonite in this manner, together with regular dental inspection, reduces the likelihood of contracting this disease to a minimum.

Sore Throat

Nearly all the ailments of the throat are due to bacterial infection. Prompt relief, therefore, can not be obtained without the use of an effective germicide. One part Zonite to five parts water as a gargle or throat spray usually clears up and controls throat infections. In severe cases, especially when ulcerations are present, the throat should be swabbed with pure Zonite and your physician called. Begin treatment promptly when symptoms first appear.

For Burns, Scalds and Blisters

Zonite is especially valuable in the treatment of burns, scalds and blisters. It prevents infection, aids in removing charred or dead tissue, helps to reduce inflammation, and accelerates healing. It also lessens scars and disfigurements that are apt to follow wounds of this character.

For Personal Hygiene

Zonite is the ideal antiseptic for personal hygiene. Poisonous caustic compounds, such as bichloride of mercury, phenol and cresol solutions, etc., are tremendously harmful when used regularly for douche medication. Any physician will verify this statement. Write for the Zonite booklet on personal hygiene for women.

For Dandruff

Dandruff (seborrhea sicca) and many other scalp irritations are due to bacterial infection. Zonite has proved remarkably effective in removing these annoying conditions. It kills the micro-organisms, dissolves and removes the scaling incrustations and exercises a stimulating and tonic effect on the scalp tissues and hair follicles.

For Catarrh

Zonite affords a most efficient local treatment for this condition. Used as a nasal spray it quickly loosens the hardened incrustations of mucous matter, clears up the nasal passages and soothes and heals congested membranes. Note—Atomizer fittings in which Zonite is used must be of hard rubber.

Rash, Skin Eruptions

There are numerous kinds of skin eruptions classed as eczema. Many of these yield readily to the application of Zonite. A few trials will demonstrate whether or not the antiseptic will be of service. Chronic skin troubles and skin troubles induced by system disorders should receive the attention of a physician.

For Old Sores

Zonite is remarkably effective in healing old sores and slow healing wounds. Used in a strong solution it will aid in dissolving dead tissue and removing proud flesh. By killing the germs, it stops the discharge of pus, rendering the sore clean and healthy. A milder solution used daily will aid in rapid healing.

Poison Ivy

In cases of poison ivy and similar plant poisoning, Zonite is perhaps the most effective remedial agent known to materia medica. It acts with extraordinary promptness in cleaning up the inflammation and restoring the skin to a normal condition.

For Insect Bites

As a relief from bee stings, mosquito bites, chiggers and many other insect bites, Zonite is particularly effective. If promptly used, the antiseptic will lessen the pain and reduce swelling and irritation.

Bad Breath (halitosis)

Breath odors are usually caused by a bacteriological condition of the mouth. Zonite is the one form of antiseptic with real germicidal power that can be used freely in the mouth. Its effect is far more thorough and far more lasting than pleasant tasting mouth washes heretofore used for this purpose.

For Body Odors

Objectionable body odors are caused by a germ (bacterium foetidum) which infects the sweat glands of the armpits, feet, etc. A scientific body deodorant must not only dispel the odor but destroy the germs which cause it. Deodorants which merely replace one odor with another or clog the pores are harmful and inefficient. Zonite kills the germs, destroys body odors promptly and effectively and leaves no odor of its own.

Rids the Home of Deadly Poisons

It is no longer necessary to keep the skull and cross-bones type of antiseptic in the home. Zonite, while highly germicidal, can cause no fatal accident. It also supplants pleasant tasting mouth washes and gargles, heretofore in general use, that according to government reports, have no detectable germicidal power.

Zonite is a clear, colorless liquid that does not stain and leaves no odor. It is the last word of science on the subject of antiseptics. Ask your druggist for the Zonite "Handbook on Antisepsis," which describes fully the protection which the antiseptic brings to the home.

RUSSIA INVITED TO SIGN TREATY

Lausanne, June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The allies today took another step toward "bringing Russia back to Europe," by a decision to invite the soviet government to sign the treaty to which the allies have agreed. The treaty is ready for signature.

The Ottoman debt problem, set for discussion today, was again delayed, as the instructions expected by the French delegates from the government were not received. The British and French still have several points of difference that must be harmonized, for the allies are determined to present the Turks with a complete agreement on this point which is regarded as crucial for the treaty. The British say the Turks seem more receptive to the allied demand that the foreign conclusions must be protected.

MANCHESTER ADOPTS U.S. COTTON STANDARDS

Manchester, England, June 27.—The directors of the Manchester cotton association have unanimously adopted the report submitted by their delegates who recently returned from America after representing Manchester's case for modification of the new United States cotton standards act. This means that the Washington agreement with the delegates will be ratified and signed and that Manchester will take its place with the other cotton exporters of the world.

Canadian House Approves Signing Fisheries Treaty

Ottawa, June 27.—Approval of the North Pacific Halibut Fisheries Treaty between the Canadian and United States governments was voted by the house of commons today after a heated debate in which the authority of Ernest LaPointe, minister of marine, to sign the treaty without the British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, signing the document, was questioned. A rider attached to the treaty by the United States senate making it applicable to the nationals and vessels of any other part of Great Britain also was assented.

Attempt Is Made To Kill Premier Of Jugo-Slavia

Belgrade, June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Nikola Pachtich, of Jugo-Slavia, was attacked and slightly wounded today shortly after leaving the house of parliament. Six shots were fired at him, one of which struck his left hand, as he was entering his motor car. He dropped to the bottom of the car and this action is thought to have saved him from further injury or possible death.

AVIATORS AFTER WORLD RECORD FORCED TO LAND

Sand Diego, Cal., June 27.—Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant John B. Richter, army aviators, who early today took the air in an attempt to set up a number of world aviation records, were forced to descend at 10:25 o'clock this morning due to the generators of their motor having burned out. Smith and Richter had been in the air slightly less than six hours when they were compelled to abandon their record efforts.

Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Cartersville, will speak at the Third Baptist church tonight. This is one of a few times she has spoken when the general public has been invited to hear her. Mrs. Felton will recount the story of her life, and tell of her many experiences, also giving an account of her trip to Washington as United States senator from Georgia.

CAPT. ROYALL SPEAKS TO NAVAL RESERVISTS

Captain Hilar Royall, assistant to the commandant of the sixth naval district, U. S. naval reserve force, was in Atlanta Wednesday for the purpose of inspecting the recently organized Atlanta division, which has a membership of 150.

A call meeting of the division was addressed by Captain Royall at division headquarters, 79 Peachtree street, Wednesday night. Upon his return to Charleston, he promised, he would undertake to secure additional equipment for the local reserve men. Athletic and radio equipment are being sought for the Atlanta clubrooms.

Short addresses were delivered by Ensign Morris N. Partridge and Lieutenant Basil C. Giesinger. A moving picture comedy concluded the program.

Methodists Elect St. Louisian Editor Of Church Organ

Nashville, Tenn., June 27.—The Book committee of the Southern Methodist church today elected Dr. Alfred P. Smith, of St. Louis, editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate, and 22 present chaplain of Barnes hospital, St. Louis, editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate, the organ of the Southern Methodist church, to succeed Dr. Thomas N. Ivey, who died recently.

The election of Dr. Smith was confirmed early this afternoon by the college of laymen, who also elected a new board of trustees. Dr. Smith is a native of Missouri, and a graduate of Central college, Fayette, Mo., which also gave him his title of doctor of divinity. He has held prominent pastorates in that state, and also in Jackson, Miss., and Birmingham, Ala. His work as editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate, a local newspaper, has been brilliant. He was elected on the 13th ballot.

Speaker Neill was nominated by his colleague from Muscogee county, S. B. Hatcher, Jr., and seconded by D. F. Pope, of Walker; C. H. McTerry, of Spauldy, and others. An unique occurrence in a Georgia legislature came after Mr. Neill had been elected. Clerk Moore, presiding by virtue of his position as clerk for the assembly of 1921-22, named as a committee to escort Mr. Neill to the speaker's chair, the two lady members, Mrs. Viola Ross Napier, of Bibb, and Miss Bessie Kempton, of Fulton, with Mr. Hatcher, of Muscogee.

Interest in Women. Probably the greatest interest of the entire opening session in the house centered upon these two women members, first of the spectacular sex, to sit in a Georgia legislature. Bibb county, for alphabetical reasons, won the honor of first seeing a daughter perform an official act in such a gathering, when Mrs. Napier was called to receive the oath. She was given a round hand of applause, and like oration came for Miss Kempton when she took her turn before the administering official, a few minutes later. In the roll call, however, Miss Kempton answered first, as this is customarily done, in alphabetical order of the representatives, instead of alphabetically by counties.

Miss Kempton also had the honor of being the first woman member to make a speech from the floor, brief though her remarks were. It was after the organization had been completed and the business of drawing lots for seats was commencing. A resolution was introduced to allow the two ladies to take their first choice of the seats, without the formality of drawing, but Miss Kempton announced that neither she nor Mrs. Napier asked for any extra privileges and wanted only to sit with the other representatives from their respective counties, wherever that might prove to be. In the windup, both got excellent seats, on the third row from the front, just to the right of the speaker.

Dr. Bell Present. The invocation in the house was pronounced by Dr. S. R. Bell, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, Atlanta, while Rev. J. W. G. Watkins, of College Park, father of Judge Garland M. Watkins and chaplain of the senate for many years past, performed similar service in the senate.

Joint resolutions were adopted during the morning which provide for joint sessions Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This morning joint session will be held to certify to the election of state house officials while Friday morning both houses will unite to hear Governor Hardwick's message. On Saturday will come the inauguration of Governor Clifford M. Walker, and the hearing of his inaugural message.

In his address to the house, after his election as speaker, Mr. Neill particularly urged the members not to be guilty of the crime of absenteeism, pointing out the exceedingly important business which will undoubtedly come up during this session. He took the opportunity to congratulate the state on the election of lady members.

President Carswell, in the senate, stated that he has no intention of following the recommendations of either the outgoing or incoming governor, blindly. He stated that he will be glad and proud to work along the lines they lay down, insofar as those lines are correct, but that he would only follow them when they are right.

Plan Honor to Clay. There was a sombre touch to the gathering, due to the recent death of Herbert Clay, former president of the senate and representative from Cobb in this year's house. It is expected that some means will be sought by both houses to pay a tribute of respect to Mr. Clay's memory, as well as that of others who have died during the past ten months.

Aside from the brief flurry over the Dubose resolution of taxation, the only opportunity for speech making Wednesday came through speeches of nomination and seconding of the various officers. Most of these were brief, though there were a few who seemed absolutely unable to control their oratory when once they stood on the floor.

A resolution by Miller, of Dodge, sought to amend the rules of the house as conducted during the 1921-22 legislature, and then to adopt them for this assembly. Objection to adoption of the resolution was made, without full opportunity to study and understand them, however, resulted in the adoption of an amendment resolution presented by Fernor Burnett, under which the rules of last year were temporarily adopted, and 250 copies of the amendments proposed are to be printed and distributed among the members for their study before the amended rules are again brought before the house for action.

After balloting for seats the routine business of the organization session of the 1923 session of the Georgia

General Assembly was concluded and the session adjourned.

Budget Report. It is understood that Governor Hardwick will transmit the report of the budget commission to the legislature Thursday. While no details of this report have been given out for publication, it is generally understood that it will recommend that no increase over the 1922 appropriations be made this year, inasmuch as the treasury is now just about balanced between income and outgo.

The two governors, Hardwick and Walker, met in a short conference at the capitol Wednesday afternoon, at which time it is understood their conversation was confined entirely to a discussion of routine matters pertaining to the office.

There were a number of distinguished visitors present during the opening session, including the two U. S. senators from Georgia, William J. Harris and Walter F. George.

Routine duties such as mark the initial session of each new senate were performed by that body, there being little business transacted between the hours of convening and adjournment other than election of officers.

Will Aid Governor. Following his unanimous election Mr. Carswell responded with an address in which he pleaded for a session free from factionalism and urged that harmony reign in the upper house. Stating that he had not supported Governor Walker in the race last year for office of chief executive, but that he will support the governor on progressive measures tending to increase efficiency in the state, Mr. Carswell pledged his most earnest efforts in the conduct of affairs in the senate.

"While I did not support Governor Walker," declared Mr. Carswell, "I know him to be a capable gentleman and so long as he brings forth measures looking toward the progress of Georgia he will have my warm support."

"Still I shall not follow Governor

Walker blindly, nor will I take recommendations of the outgoing governor and follow them without first giving them careful consideration in order that the best might be obtained from them.

This session in many respects will be the most important in a great many years. The state needs revenue to develop its great resources and the greatest of Georgia's undeveloped resources are its boys and girls. Georgia now stands almost at the bottom of the list in educational progress and the general assembly would do well to concern itself with the needs of our great educational institutions."

Before adjournment a resolution was passed providing for a special committee to hear evidence in the contest between James G. Vocell and Charles A. Arnow over the fourth district senate seat.

REALTORS SEE LOWER COST OF BUILDING

Cleveland, Ohio, June 27.—Prediction of falling prices in the cost of building and general real estate activity were made by speakers at the opening session of the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards here today. The convention, said to be the largest gathering of business men this year, attracted approximately 1,500 delegates from the United States and Canada.

Basing his conclusions on questionnaires issued to all real estate boards by the national association in May, Melvin I. Morse, real estate statistician of Wellesley Hills, Mass., also forecast some depressions for general business. He predicted no general crash, however, but a gradual decline of business in a series of steps.

"The demand for new buildings at the present level of costs is nearly filled," Mr. Morse stated. "But the need for new buildings, taking all classes as a whole, is by no means filled. When costs are reduced another lot of contracts will be forthcoming." The extent of each drop "will depend mainly on the readiness of building material men and of labor trades to adjust themselves to the situation," he added.

A general diminution of prices in the near future also was predicted by Congressman Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, who added that this would not be a real disadvantage to many because of the greater purchasing power of money. Congressman Burton predicted a stiffening in rates upon commercial paper in the last half of the year because of the credit required to move crops and the larger demands of the later season. During the afternoon the realtors divided into seven divisional meetings.

Speaking before the property management division, Albert W. Swayne of Chicago, urged co-operative apartment building and ownership as a great step towards solution of the housing problem. It is practically impossible for the family of moderate means to live in its own bungalow and enjoy modern comforts because of high standards, increased taxes and maintenance expense in the larger cities, he said.

Predictions that business rentals will remain high "because America is doing business on a higher level than in her history" was made by Mark Levy, of Chicago, in a talk before the property management division.

Dr. Richard T. Ely, economist of the University of Wisconsin, urged the establishment of a national land commission and government ownership and control of forest lands in his address before the farm lands division.

Debit of Civil War Days Against Southern Cities

Washington, June 27.—For 62 years the postoffice department has carried on its books a debit of $37,277.06 charged against four southern cities—New Orleans, Savannah, Galveston and Little Rock. There seems to be no hope of wiping out these debts and they probably will be carried on the books indefinitely, or until congress sees fit to charge them to profit and loss.

Every time a balance is struck and every time the postmaster general issues his annual report the entries must be taken into consideration to make the accounts balance. So old debts have been carried over and over until the postoffice clerks have become so accustomed to them that it was difficult to find the proper explanation. At last, however, one was discovered familiar with its history.

In 1861, he said, Confederate forces took possession of federal postal funds at the New Orleans sub-treasury in the amount of $31,104.44 and in United States depositories at Little Rock in the amount of $5,823.50, at Savannah of $205.76 and at Galveston of $83.36.

In 1912 legislation was offered in congress to have the accounts wiped from the books. An amendment, however, was accepted providing that the books should be kept open so that the money could be recovered in the event it was offered. The amendment had the effect of nullifying the bill so the accounts are still carried on the books.

Madison, Ga., June 27.—(Special.) Nick Morakes was freed by Judge Walter Merritt at the preliminary hearing here today of all blame in connection with the disappearance on the night of June 9 and death of Jim Morakes, local restaurant proprietor.

Nick Morakes was charged jointly with John Morakes and John Potris with the murder of Jim Morakes. The latter were held for action by the Morgan county grand jury, which meets next at the September term of Superior court.

It was the contention of the state that Jim Morakes was killed by Nick Morakes, and the body of the dead man carried to a point about four miles east of Columbia, S. C., in an automobile by John Morakes and John Potris. A complete alibi, however, was established by Nick Morakes, resulting in his liberation.

Two witnesses were brought by the state from South Carolina, a dairyman living in the country near Columbia, and Mrs. J. Clifton Rivers, wife of the warehouse commissioner of South Carolina. The dairyman positively identified John Morakes and John Potris as the two men he had seen in an automobile near the spot where the body of the slain man was found, and that they had another man between them on the seat of the car, with his head concealed by a handkerchief.

Although the state had not contended that Nick Morakes had been away from Madison, and a complete alibi was established by him, Mrs. Rivers identified him as one of the two men she had seen near Columbia on Sunday morning, June 10.

Local witnesses were put on the stand who claimed to have been with Jim Morakes in his restaurant, the Busy Bee cafe, as late as 12:30 on Saturday night. They are the last persons who are known to have seen him alive.

It was at 7:45 o'clock on Sunday morning that the dairyman claims he saw the two accused men near Columbia, only about six hours after the slain man was seen here. The distance from Madison to the point where the men were supposed to have been seen is approximately 210 miles.

George Christophits, who operates a restaurant on North Broad street, Atlanta, testified that the two accused men were with him all of Saturday, Sunday and Monday, returning to Madison Tuesday morning.

Paris, June 27.—(Gann) Walska (Mrs. Harold F. McCormick) made her debut in Paris opera last evening at a charity performance of "Rigoletto."

A crowded house, brilliant socially, applauded the singer warmly. Madame Walska was nervous at the outset. This was attributed to the last minute change in the cast, by which M. Ivanoff was substituted for Jean Maurin in the title role, owing to the latter's indisposition, but she succeeded in overcoming the nervous attack before the performance had proceeded far.

Young Man Charged With Burglarizing Chemical Offices

After breaking into the offices of H. K. Mulford Chemical company at 39 1-2 Lucie street, Wednesday night, it is alleged, J. B. Foster, 18, of 169 1/2 street, was apprehended by the night watchman of the building, and held until police arrived. Foster, police state, only secured a suitcase, which was taken from him.

Deserted Automobile Badly Damaged Found By Police

An automobile, which police say belongs to Harry S. Robert, salesman for the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, with offices in the Henley building, was found deserted and badly damaged near the bridge Wednesday night. Call Officers J. M. Austin and J. E. McDaniel were told that three men were riding in the car and as it crossed the bridge it swerved to the curb and hit a telephone pole.

Witnesses also declared that one of the men seemed badly hurt, as he was lifted into a passing automobile. None of the victims could be located at any hospital.

Mrs. E. A. Aronette, of 237 Ponce de Leon avenue, suffered severe cuts and bruises about the face and body when the top of a street car struck a white way lamp, the glass coming down on her. The accident occurred at Forsyth and Marietta street.

Another white way lamp was demolished when a crew of negro workers, unloading lumber at North avenue and West Peachtree street, threw a plank against it. No one was injured.

LABOR IN FAVOR OF TRADE SCHOOL

C. W. Cunningham, member of the bricklayer's union, last night was named president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, defeating C. F. Jackson, chief clerk in the city health department, and succeeding Emmett L. Quinn. The election was for the last six months of the year 1923, and other officers of the federation were named as follows:

Four vice presidents: J. S. Tiller, printing pressmen; John Scott, railway carmen; C. B. Keeling, barbers; John C. Burdette, street railway employees.

L. B. Marquardt, who has been recording and corresponding secretary for several years, was succeeded by William Strauss, of the tailors' union, who was nominated by W. C. Carraway, and the nomination was seconded by Mr. Marquardt, who paid a tribute to his fellow craftsmen.

Karston Is Beaten. Another feature of the election was the defeat of Carl Karston, of musicians, for financial secretary and treasurer. He was beaten by Walter C. Carraway, member of the printers' union. Mr. Karston served continuously as treasurer of the federation for 17 years.

Charles B. Gramling, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, was elected sergeant at arms.

The new finance and auditing committee is composed of W. T. Adams, T. E. Ball and E. O. McLain, while James William Pollock, of the electrical workers and president of the Building Trades Council; Harvill, of the picture machine operators, and A. S. Nance, of the mailers, were made trustees.

Indorse Trade School. A feature of the meeting was the adoption of a report of the executive board indorsing a proposal of Professor Sutton, of the public school system, to establish trade classes in the Atlanta public schools under the provisions of the Smith-Hughes act, which makes the government responsible for the payment of five-eighths of the cost of the classes.

The Atlanta Builders' exchange, which is backing the movement, proposes to pay the other three-eighths of the cost. The report of the executive board favoring the trades school proposition precipitated a sharp fight, led by William Pollock, head of the building trades council, who amended the motion so as to refer the matter to the building trades. The amendment was lost, after a spirited fight, and the motion to adopt the report carried by a cool majority after it was explained by members of the executive board that the proposal was solely in the interest of broader education for the boys of Atlanta.

A resolution proposing a city charter change fixing the rate that can be charged by the Atlanta water department at a "fair and reasonable rate" and proposing to limit the use of funds derived by water service to the maintenance of the water department, was adopted.

This resolution was in opposition to the raise of water rates in Atlanta 25 per cent per month. The resolution was directed to the legislature, asking that body to make the above changes in Atlanta's charter, which does not now place any limit on rates for water or confine the use of water funds to that department.

Another Chance Given to Modern Magdalen Here

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN. Alone she stood on the rostrum of justice. Lone woman amid a group of men, the officers of the law—her accusers. She came up defiantly when her name was called. A mere wave in the steady stream of men and women who break the law of God and the land and who pass before Judge Johnson's desk each day with ever-changing kaleidoscopic mobility.

Tearing above her head and around her were men grim determined looking men. She had been caught in one of the city's lowest dives. The police had snatched her from a den, where human derelicts congregated where the outcasts of civilization hang out, where life is hell.

Her companions had been ex-convicts, bootleggers and men who peddle soul-destroying drugs. The police had warned her time and again and tried to put her right. Each time she had gone back.

The evidence was damning. Her head sunk down in shame and she dared not lift her eyes. The judge looked at her as he read the horrible details of her life. Even the big men of the law, who know every phase of the underworld life, were moved. Yet pity was written on all faces.

Then a sweet-faced young woman stepped on the stand. The contrast between the two women was startling. Around her but the girl wore the red ribbon of the Salvation Army. The same ribbon that often shone like a beam of light in the darkest wilderness of crime cities.

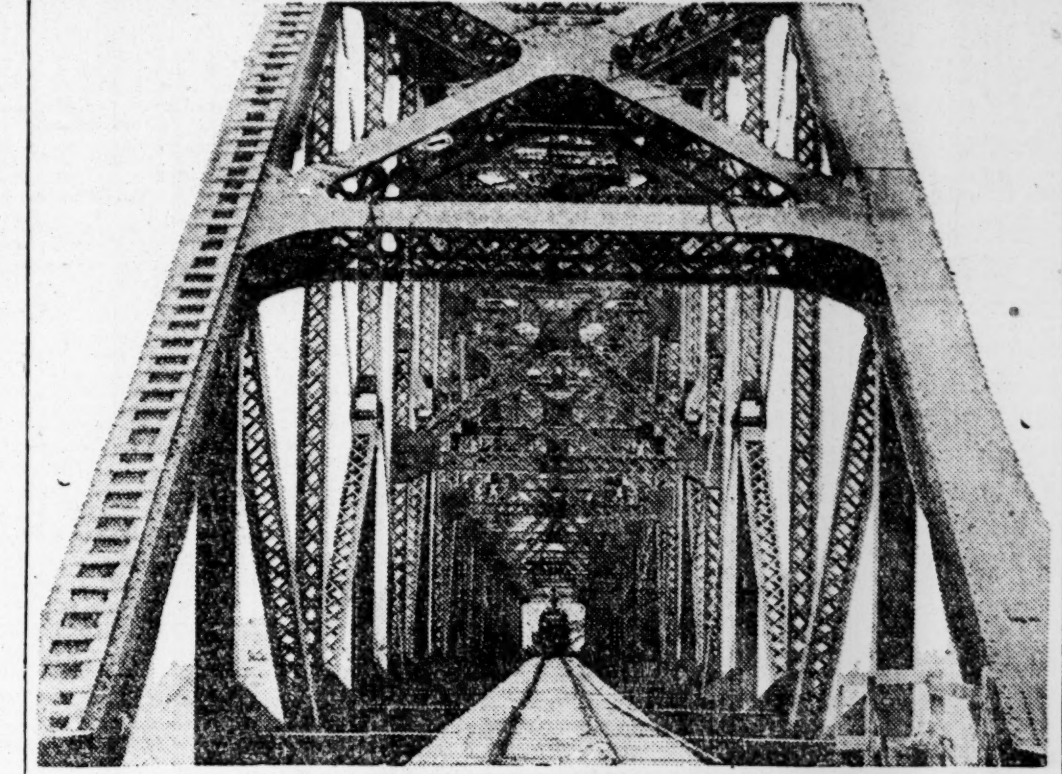

She put her arms around the woman, and in a voice that sounded like music, a voice with a note of tender sympathy, she asked her to make another try.

And then this Magdalen, whose life had been a blot upon the community, all on the other woman's shoulder and wept bitterly. Tears washed the rouge away from her cheeks. Her lips twitched and her hands tremblingly sought the hand of her rescuer.

The Salvation Army worker looked at the judge for a moment. The judge did not speak a word. He looked away as he watched his hand motioning them to go. And then the two women, both weeping, walked out of the courtroom, where a stillness reigned that was breathless.

"And Jesus said, Verily I say unto you there will be joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth more than over the ninety and nine persons, which need no repentance."

Its single span is 702 feet long. It is considered an engineering feat.

WOMEN PRISONERS ATTEMPT ESCAPE FROM STOCKADE

An attempt to escape from the city stockade was evidently made by women prisoners early Wednesday morning, according to a report turned in to Police Chief James L. Beavers Wednesday by Mrs. N. P. Helmut, matron, who stated that a twisted staple, a hammered lock and scratches along the door facing were discovered early Wednesday morning.

Call Officers J. W. McWilliams, John Love, N. P. Barker and A. B. Niles were notified, and thoroughly searched the women's cells for further evidence of an attempted escape, but could find nothing.

DIRECTOR HINES TO VISIT ATLANTA

Washington, June 27.—Director Hines, of the veterans' bureau, announced today that he will arrive in Tuskegee, Ala., July 6 to "see if I can reach an understanding with the citizens there" with regard to the decision to man the veterans' bureau hospital there completely with negro personnel.

Pending his personal investigation at Tuskegee, Director Hines recently announced no further negro personnel will be assigned to the institution.

Quite a furor, in which leading citizens of the state and locality engaged, was created by Director Hines' announcement to the president that soon he expected to be able to announce selection of a complete negro personnel.

Before going to Tuskegee, Dr. Hines will inspect the Atlanta district, leaving Washington about July 4.

U. S. TO ESTABLISH PLANT INSPECTION BUREAU IN MACON

Macon, Ga., June 27.—The United States government, through the department of agriculture, will establish a terminal plant inspection bureau at Macon, beginning July 15, and continuing through the peach season probably a month or more.

The federal laws require that peaches and other agricultural fruits and products shall meet certain requirements, both to the producer and buyer. In order that full justice may be done all parties in the handling of such products, an appropriation was authorized a year or two ago to take care of tomatoes, melons of different varieties, and peaches, but for the first time the government will undertake to establish central headquarters at Macon for this purpose.

It is intended that the inspectors, who will be sent to Macon, will make a careful inspection of all peaches at the terminal point, and secure information that may be used should there be a difference of opinion between the shipper and the seller of peaches, as to condition and value.

It is proposed to have this inspection service act in a way that will go far towards standardizing the different grades of fruit. The Macon force will be composed of six or eight men, and they will open their headquarters at the time named and remain at Macon as long as the peach season lasts.

EASTMAN BOY SCOUTS PLAN WEEK'S CAMPING

Eastman, Ga., June 27.—(Special.) The Eastman Boy Scouts will leave here on July 2, for a week's camp at Houston factory. Ford's Denials of Presidential Ambition May Be Clever Politics

Henry Ford and (inset) Senator James Couzens.

BY GEORGE M. HEIL.

Will Henry Ford be a candidate for president in 1924?

It may be said—perhaps without undue exaggeration—that more persons are interested in the answer to this question more than in any probable issue of the coming campaign.

Ford himself has said "No," emphatically and repeatedly.

But politicians, both republican and democratic, and political observers in general prefer to take that "No" in the diplomatic parlance as meaning about anything but what it professes to mean.

They profess to see in the repeated denials the keen strategy employed by clever politicians in practically every big campaign—the masking of the real intent until what is believed to be the psychological moment arrives.

Sensors Say He Will.

Both U. S. senators from Ford's home state, Michigan, have intimated their belief that the auto king will make the race. Senator Ferris is more certain than his colleague, Senator Couzens, that Ford will run, but declares he will not support him.

Ford calls the talk about his candidacy "newspaper stuff."

But newspapers print "news" and "news" is what interests the greatest number of readers most. This would seem to indicate that there is considerable interest in the Ford candidacy.

Another evidence of the popularity of the Detroitite is the result of the nation-wide poll now being conducted by Collier's Weekly which at the time of this writing shows Ford leading Harding, his closest rival, by some 22,000 votes.

Of the 164,514 voters questioned 54,257 favored Ford, 32,924 were for Harding and the remainder were scattered, and no other peculiar feature of this poll is that Ford leads in every state except New York, where Harding is running first.

What gives rise to the question, "Is the Ford boom built around a personality or an issue?"

Politicians, veterans in the game, put very little credence in the Ford denials and declare that they have little bearing on the situation, considering that the boom is built about an issue.

What is the issue?

Is This His Slogan?

Politicians say that it is the cry for a man possessing advanced ideas on high wages, equality of opportunity, a man "who can beat Wall street at his own game and send the little man and his family on a joy ride."

These political sages believe that Ford, because of his reputation for square-dealing with his employees, as a wizard of industry and the conqueror of Wall street, has become the example of what the discontented elements of this country want.

Party chieftains, both republicans and democratic, realize that discontent is widespread and their efforts are bent on preventing it from crystallizing into a third party movement.

But before Ford steps into the white house he must needs overcome obstacles which surpass anything encountered in his industrial career.

Should he head a third party movement his chances of success, to say the least, would be questionable, but it would upset politicians' plans.

He might obtain the democratic nomination by calling himself a democrat, but it would be only after a fight which would go down in political annals as one of the bitterest on record, for he is certain to be opposed by a faction which will fight him to the bitter end.

Jewish Opposition.

The powerful opposition emanating from Jewish sources also must be reckoned with, for every Hebrew organization in the country, regardless of the political affiliations of its members, would be lined up solidly in the anti-Ford ranks.

There seems to be but little doubt that the agricultural districts and the "small fellows" would clamor ahead the handwagon with Henry Ford.

However, if Ford has serious intentions of attempting to land the presidency in 1924 he is adopting the proper "pre-campaign tactics" to build up his following for he is avoiding the possibility of killing off his boom by premature activity.

There are any number of political leaders willing to boom Ford now in the hope that by the time convention days roll around he will be a political corpse, effectually eliminated from serious consideration.

License Tag Stolen From Machine While In Custody of Police

The entire membership of Atlanta's constabulary was thrown into consternation Wednesday by the report filed Tuesday with Police Chief Captain A. J. Holcombe by Desk Lieutenant W. H. Andrews that the license tag was stolen from an automobile while in the care of police officials and held in the yards of the prison barracks.

The auto is the property of Bob Barnett, 19 Brown place, and was found by Detectives Jones and Ginn at Woodward avenue and Connally street about 4:30 o'clock last Monday afternoon.

After the car was taken to the police station, Barnett called for the machine shortly after 6 o'clock and obtained an order for it from Lieutenant Andrews. Barnett deferred getting the car until Tuesday morning, when it was discovered that the license tag had been removed.

Chief James L. Beavers and Captain T. O. Sturdivant, of the detective department, have detailed officers to solve the mystery.

MRS. ELIZA HOUSE DIES NEAR WINDER

Winder, Ga., June 27.—(Special.) Mrs. Eliza House, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed women of Barrow county, died at her home near Rockwell church Monday.

She was eighty-one years old at the time of her death, and had lived in this section all her life. She was the widow of the late John House, a prominent planter of Jackson county, before a section of that county was cut off in Barrow county.

Mrs. House was the mother of eight children, seven of whom survive. L. A. and J. H. House, of Winder; Thomas House, of Oglethorpe county; Miss Una House and Miss Ara House, Mrs. W. E. Dunahoo and Mrs. Miles C. Patrick, of Barrow county.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at Rockwell church, Rev. A. G. Strain, of Atlanta, officiating, being in charge, assisted by Dr. John H. Wood, of Rome, with interment in the family burial grounds near her home.

Colored Concert.

The Atlanta orchestra and other local colored musical talent will appear in concert at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the Central Avenue Methodist church, the proceeds to go to the church fund.

PARISHIAN EDITOR ON TRIAL AS SPY

Paris, June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The trial of Ernest Judet, newspaper editor, charged with communicating with the enemy during the war, begins today.

He was editor of Le Petit Journal when that publication enjoyed the largest circulation in France, but he lost this by taking the unpopular side of the Dreyfus case. He then became editor of L'Esprit, which declined before the war from prosperity to financial embarrassment.

He moved to Switzerland early in 1915 and was accused of treason in November, 1919, with his friend of twenty years' standing, Hans Bessard, a Swiss, and Deputy Paul Meunier and Madame Bernain de Ravisi. Last February Judet and Bessard were condemned by default to life imprisonment in a fortress.

Judet then returned to France and his case is to be retried before the same judge and on the same accusation. Meunier died recently after the case against him and Mme. De Ravisi had been dropped.

The evidence against Judet includes correspondence between Von Jagow, German under-secretary of foreign affairs, and Von Lucken, former attaché at the German embassy in Paris. These letters were found in Brussels after the Germans had evacuated the city.

In them Von Jagow speaks of buying Judet's influence in France, for which service the editor is said to have demanded two million francs. This amount, according to the accusation, was paid.

In the letters Bessard is said to have received more than two million francs from the Germans.

"MIDNIGHT FROLIC" WILL BE PRESENTED

Heroic Prisoner
Freed for Service
Again Arrested

Baton Rouge, La., June 27.—William Adams, of Dallas, Texas, sentenced in 1921 for eight to fourteen years in the Louisiana penitentiary because of meritorious service while in prison, only to be arrested on a federal warrant charging theft of funds from the postoffice at Paris, Texas. During the two years he has spent in Louisiana prison Adams was cited for his work when a levee at the prison farm broke and he again was cited for his service when one of the buildings was burned a few weeks ago. His conduct won him parole.

He was arrested on the federal charge upon the return of the alleged theft at Paris occurred a few weeks prior to his arrest for a robbery at Jennings, La.

Communist Member
Barred From Party
By British Labor

London, June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The action of the labor party yesterday in voting against the communist proposal for amalgamation, was followed today by the passage of another resolution by a majority of 2,000,000 on the card vote, which in effect bars J. T. W. Newbold, the communist member of the house of commons, from official relations with the labor party.

Some criticism was voiced by speakers today of the acceptance by certain party members of invitations to dine at Lady Astor's home, London, from Lady Astor's constituency in Plymouth, reminded these dining at Lady Astor's they should "kindly remember that in Lady Astor's constituency there are ten thousand labor men and women who are trying to kick her out."

AD CLUB LUNCHEON
Herbert Porter Will Be Installed as President.

Installation of officers and reception of reports of delegates to the international convention recently held in Atlantic City will be the features of a luncheon of the Atlanta Advertising club at the chamber of commerce at 12:30 o'clock today.

Three-minute talks will be made by a number of members of the club and Jack Abbott, of London, England, a musical program will be rendered by Nora Allen, Thomas H. Dendy and E. Volpi. Herbert Porter is the new president of the club.

Piute Indians Greet Harding While in Utah

Cedar City, Utah, June 27.—Seventy-five Piute Indians in native garb and with their faces covered with bright-colored paints, greeted President Harding and his Alaska-bound party when the presidential train reached here this morning.

Departure for Zion National Park was made an hour after the visitors reached here and there were plenty of automobiles to accommodate all.

The president plans to return to Cedar City from the park late this afternoon and his way to Pocatello, and Idaho Falls, Idaho, where they are scheduled to be tomorrow afternoon.

RAPID-FIRE RIFLE PROVES CONVINCING

Washington, June 27.—Every dough boy may be practically a machine gunner in future wars due to progress made by ordnance experts in developing a semi-automatic shoulder rifle to replace the regular service magazine guns.

Recent demonstration firing with the latest post-war model, the Garand semi-automatic, at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds, has convinced many of the officials that they are on the road to the long-sought solution of the proper weapon for the infantry.

The Garand, named after its inventor, John C. Garand, long employed at the Springfield arsenal, is one of numerous semi-automatics with which army experts have been working. It is approximately the same size and weight as the army standard Springfield magazine action rifle with which all American forces are equipped, said to be the most effective military rifle in the world.

The Springfield field, with operation of the bolt action necessary to reload for each shot, has a maximum rate of fire of about thirty shots a minute, while the Garand developed a speed of 60 shots a minute during the firing at Aberdeen.

In many respects the new gun is an exact counterpart of the 1903 Springfield and it is lighter than the modified Enfield produced in quantity during the war. The automatic device applies only to the breech action for the purpose of ejecting shells in reloading. It is necessary to pull the trigger each time to fire. Of the tests at Aberdeen a war department memorandum says: "This gun was fired with great success and it at once became a matter of great interest to those who are watching it because of its possibilities for rapid, accurate and sustained firing from the shoulder, though being at the same time a light, portable gun which can be carried without fatigue to the individual soldier."

At another point the memorandum said the performance of the Garand under severe tests as to endurance promised "to fulfill the many requirements that will be imposed upon it," and the conclusion was reached.

Results thus far "justify the belief that such a weapon (a semi-automatic shoulder rifle) can be suitably developed and manufactured to replace the well-known magazine fed, hand-operated shoulder rifle."

Semi-automatic guns have been used for sporting purposes for years but no mechanism suitable for military purposes has been produced. The Garand is still in its development stage, but there is no doubt that military experts expect it ultimately to replace the Springfield.

What changes in tactics will result have not yet been worked out. With the infantry equipped to deliver nearly three times its present maximum volume of fire, however, and with infantry companies relieved of the job of packing present-day automatic rifles to the front and being greatly slowed down in movement thereby, it is obvious that there will be radical changes in battle tactics when the new gun is issued.

WOMAN WOUNDED,
THREE IN CUSTODY
RESULT OF FIGHT

Chicago, June 27.—A woman was shot and severely wounded and "Big Dave" Earsman, two other men and the woman's sister were held by police today as a result of a revolver fight in a soft-drink parlor early today.

Earsman has figured as a reluctant witness in the investigation of alleged jury-tampering in the trial of Governor Small.

Miss Irene Barry was shot in the hip by Fred Jefferson, proprietor of the place where she and her sister, Mrs. Adeline Dyslin, Denis Dougherty and Earsman were said to have been sipping drinks. According to the police an altercation had arisen between Miss Barry and Dougherty and the woman drew a revolver and fired. Jefferson then fired three shots, the police say, one wounding Miss Barry. As the police were arriving Earsman was said to have fled with the revolver. Miss Barry had dropped. He was declared to have fired twice as he ran into an alley but struck no one and threw the weapon away. He was caught and with the other men and Mrs. Dyslin taken to a police station and Miss Barry was removed to a hospital.

Earsman recently was taken into custody and held in Zion, Ill., by the Lake county authorities and seemed near to being cited for contempt for failure to answer questions before the Waukegan grand jury. It continued its investigation of the Small trial charges in connection with which three men are now on trial at Waukegan.

Wisconsin Senate
Refuses to Consider
Dahl Income Tax Bill

Madison, Wis., June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Wisconsin senate refused, 16 to 15, to send to a third reading the Dahl general income tax bill as amended by a substitute amendment offered by Senator Max Heck, Racine, Wis. After killing the single remaining revenue measure a motion was made to reconsider the vote by which third reading was refused.

Ontario Death List
Is Increased to Five
In Storm-Swept Area

Toronto, June 27.—The death list from a storm that smote western Ontario Monday mounted to five this morning as restoration of broken communication systems progressed. The estimate of property loss remained at $1,000,000. It was said that it would take a week to clear streets and highways of uprooted trees, broken telegraph and telephone poles.

ROBERT LANSING AIDED BY INSULIN

Washington, June 27.—Robert Lansing, former secretary of state, has been seriously ill from diabetes but is said by his physicians to have shown great improvement under the administration of insulin, the new remedy recently developed in Canada.

Unknown to any but his most intimate friends, Mr. Lansing has suffered from diabetes for several years and has confined himself to a severe anti-diabetic diet which resulted in a state of great physical disability. Six weeks ago he entered a hospital and under the care of Dr. Sterling Ruffin of Washington, was given the insulin treatment. He responded at once, it is said, and after he left the hospital continued the treatment at his residence here.

Not only has he gained greatly in flesh and in strength, but his dietary restrictions were removed and now he is permitted to eat as much as he desires of all varieties of food. When he left yesterday for his summer home at Watstown, N. Y., he was said to have appeared to be well on the road to complete recovery.

ASSEMBLY ORGANIZED.

The Georgia legislature, true to custom and tradition, has taken up its fifty-day mid-summer stand in Atlanta; and as is also customary the citizens of the city extend their kindest greetings and best wishes for a pleasant sojourn for the assemblymen and a resourceful session in the interest of those things that go toward making Georgia a greater and a more progressive state.

Atlanta is always proud to have the members of the assembly in her midst. They are among the most outstanding citizens of the state, so demonstrated by the fact of their elections to represent great constituencies in great deliberative bodies.

Their responsibilities are heavy; and the usual legislator measures up to his or her responsibility with credit.

The session of 1923 will probably be stormy. It would not be following custom if it were not. But in the end it is hoped that constructive results may be obtained to the best interest of the state and the people.

The gavel is in the hands of good men, honest, fair, experienced. The president of the senate, Hon. George Carswell, has served for many years in legislative service, and has made a notable record in both branches. Some years ago he was chairman of the appropriations committee in the senate, and the fight he then made for order and system along state and sound business lines was of a high order, and showed a keen judgment in the interest of the people. He is a forceful speaker, an aggressive character, and will make a good presiding officer.

His leading opponent in the pre-assembly contest for the presidency, Senator Mundy, is one of the ablest and most trustworthy men in Georgia. He is broad-minded, broad-visioned, co-operative, and President Carswell will have no stronger supporter during the deliberations of that body.

The unanimous re-election of Speaker Cecil Neill, of Muskogee, without opposition, was a notable tribute that was deserved by one of the most efficient and most popular presiding officers the house has ever had.

The president pro tem of the senate and the speaker pro tem are men of distinctive ability, fair and dependable.

Secretary McClatchey and Chief Clerk Moore are both legislative institutions, and nothing attests their efficiency and popularity so much as their elections, session after session, without serious opposition.

The organization of the two bodies was perfected this session with unusual harmony and with almost record efficiency.

Let us hope it forecasts a session of harmony and of expeditious service in the interest of Georgia—Georgia farm conditions, Georgia roads, Georgia schools, Georgia institutions, and Georgia's material welfare generally.

Conditions today demand action of a heroic nature. It is a reconstruction period, not only to meet necessary readjustments occasioned by war, but to meet readjustments made imperative by rural conditions.

Labor shortage is an acute problem. Both of these combine to make farming readjustments unavoidable.

The tax problem is one of major importance; and the whole country is watching Georgia.

Certainly taxes must not be increased, and just as certainly must revenues be increased by wider distribution.

Here every good wish to the legislators who are gathered, and may their deliberations result in unselfish service worth while; for this is a day of service, and a day of co-operation.

BLOW TO COMMUNISM.

Communism, which has been gaining headway in southern continental Europe, was given a smashing blow by the labor party in England, and this ought to be a heartening incident in the fight against the octopus in this country.

The application of the communist party, which carries in reality the red flag of Russian bolshevism, for membership in the British labor party was so overwhelmingly defeated that it undoubtedly has given a greater and more conservative strength to the labor party, and has added a respect for it from quarters that have heretofore been afraid of its alleged radical tendencies.

The American Federation of Labor has taken a decided position against communism and all forms of soviet radicalism. The fact remains, however, that—despite the opposing attitude of organized labor and the activity of federal agents—the various communistic and syndicalistic societies have strong footholds in the alien industrial centers of this country. Investigations show that these societies are increasing in strength, and in some quarters the social and political situations are threatened because of them.

America has been too lenient, too tolerant with the radical elements. They have been used too much by professional and demagogic politicians to further their demands. They have been aided and abetted—perhaps unwittingly—in most instances—by party leaders, and the result is that in this country today there is more flaunting of the red flag of bolshevism than there is in Great Britain, which is almost in the shadow of its birth-place and cradle.

The obligation is upon the understanding men and women of America not only to put down communism and syndicalism and the like, but to put down the men who secretly use such influences to foster their own political fortunes.

ADMIRAL WRIGHT'S WORK.

The Confederate sailor has had hard sledding since the war for lack of records of enlistment, service and discharge.

Each Confederate state looked out for its soldiers and their records are on file at the capitol of each.

The Confederacy looked out for the records of its sailors, but when it went down their records went down, too.

At their reunion in this city in 1919, the Confederate Naval Veterans instructed Admiral A. O. Wright to undertake the work of rescuing the records of their dead sailors, and he has been employed on that mission ever since.

At first he endeavored to establish a haven of rest where those who yet remained on deck could go, not to die, but to work, their work being the gathering and putting into shape the deeds of that branch of the service in writing—an official history of the Confederate navy, told by those who helped to make that history.

After working on this for several years he had to abandon it, the public being disinclined to give the Confederate sailors the home, saying that the money was needed for monuments, etc.

At their Richmond reunion last year Admiral Wright was instructed to confine his efforts to rescuing from oblivion the records of service, and that duty has been his for a year.

In discharging it he has visited those southern states whose legislatures were in session in order to secure their co-operation. He has secured such legislation from eight of them, and is now in Atlanta to ask the legislature to do this for Georgia.

Every person who wants to keep straight the official records of the war should be squarely behind Admiral Wright in this work.

THE TYBEE ROAD.

Several thousand people from all over Georgia helped Savannah celebrate last week the official opening of the new million-dollar boulevard that connects that city with Tybee beach on the Atlantic.

In that contingent Atlanta furnished perhaps the largest delegation from any city and it but illustrates the good-will that Atlanta feels in every great development in Georgia. It matters not in what section it may be located. Atlanta felicitates Savannah upon the completion of this great project and predicts that Tybee beach will become one of the most popular watering places along the Atlantic coast.

The road across the various marsh islands, necessitating in its construction millions of yards of fill, a number of concrete and steel bridges and sixteen miles of surfacing, is one of the many real constructive undertakings that have distinguished Georgia in the past few years.

This Tybee road was built entirely by Chatham county, without federal or state aid, which is another notable feature and one illustrating the enterprise of the people of that progressive city and county.

I.

Time’s up for love and laughter,
We drained the banquet cup,
And now the dark comes after,
And lights are out. Time’s up!

II.

Time’s up for wooing—winning,
For doubt, for dream, for strife;
For sighing and for sinning—
For love, for hate, for life.

O sweet bride, at the marriage,
Impatient, at thy gates,
Beside a sable carriage

O statesman, crowned and splendid,
The laurel leaves thy brow,
The long debate is ended—
The halls are voiceless now.

On the last hour, completed,
Lie down there, where the dark is,
And dream that time was sweet.

Life in the Country.

A great philosopher says that where there is a will there is a married woman.—Bathory (Clippie).

“We heard a small boy rejoicing the other day because it was raining so much,” reports Mrs. Trolley, Evergreen correspondent in the Greenfield Vedette. “His reason was that he wouldn’t have to wash his feet because he was in the ditches all day.”

And another traveler back from the Ozarks declares he found a queer looking house down there built up on stilts, whose owner kept his herd of pigs in a pen under it. When questioned with because of the lack of sanitation such conditions brought about the native ran his eye over his twelve pig children and his tubercular wife and daughter and “Shucks, What’n’ talkin’ about? I done keep ‘em fer years and I ain’t lost nary a hog yet.”—Kansas City Times.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

WGM TO DETAIL GAMES ON FOURTH

Plans Made for Broadcasting Double-Header of Crackers With New Orleans at Poncey.

The Fourth of July will be a big day in more ways than one, for Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, has arranged to broadcast in detail both of the Cracker baseball games at Poncey de Leon park. Both games are with New Orleans.

The baseball service which The Constitution is giving now has excited the favorable comment of hundreds of baseball fans in addition to other hundreds who before have taken only a passing interest in the Crackers' ball games.

The first of these games on the Fourth of July will start at ten o'clock in the morning. The Constitution will broadcast the details of this game until twelve o'clock noon.

The second game, in the afternoon, will begin at 2 o'clock and Station WGM will give the details on this by radio until four o'clock.

HARDING SENDS FLORAL OFFERING FOR AUTO VICTIMS

Denver, Col., June 27.—Funeral services for Thomas French and Thomas F. Dawson, both of Denver, victims of Sunday's automobile accident in Bear Creek canyon, were held today.

President Harding sent a floral offering to each. The party of which Dawson and French were members was made up of Washington newspaper correspondents accompanying the president on his trip to Alaska, and local newspaper men.

Donald Craig, injured in the accident, was improving rapidly at St. Luke's hospital tonight, according to an announcement. Mr. Craig is the Washington correspondent of the New York Herald.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggist Not To Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of useless study, that no one can be free from Rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRIU, to others who took it, with what might be called unselfish success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRIU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return every penny without comment. All druggists can supply you.—(adv.)

A Little Journey of A One-Carat Diamond

About eighty tons of rock must be brought to the surface, moved many miles, crushed, washed and handled many times during a period of three years to produce the value of a one-carat diamond in its finished state.

After the rough stones are transported to London, the great diamond market, and from there carried to all parts of the world by diamond cutters, there is a waste of sixty per cent in the cutting.

An uncut stone weighing 2 1/4 carats is required to make a finished gem of one carat.

And to this waste is added the cost of the labor of cutting—approximately sixty hours of unremitting attention by highly specialized workmen.

You will enjoy reading our booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," which we mail complimentary to anyone upon request.

Special Program Draws Attention of Thousands

Station WGM last night at midnight started a program that will long be remembered by radio fans of the country, especially those of the west coast of the United States. The program, of a surprise variety, was presented primarily for the Pacific coast listeners, but hundreds of Atlantans were tuned in and enjoying the program, as was evidenced by the great number of telephone calls.

The program presented two of the city's orchestras and a number of Atlanta's popular vocalists and pianists. Some of the latest song hits were presented by the artists during the evening and early morning. Because of interpolated features and the lateness of the program, full details of the station's surprise can not be given till Friday morning's issue of The Constitution.

ACES WILL OFFER NEW TUNES AT SIX

Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, will be on deck before the microphone at 6 o'clock tonight.

When the Aces occupy center stage with listeners to Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, it means the best orchestra entertainment in the south for them.

Byron Warner, director and pianist of the Aces, has been preparing for the last few weeks a number of new selections specially for introduction to radio listeners. Warner orchestras will make every one of them different.

But the fact that the Aces will have some more new numbers in their kit when they come up tonight is not the only thing that attracts attention in their program. The Aces always offer the best there is in dance music and whenever they play the response is almost immediate and prolonged, to say the least.

Bob Pittman, who now has a band that he says costs more than a certain type of automobile (?), but is certainly a lot more useful in operation, has a few breaks in the new numbers for tonight that promise to secure for him new honors.

Tom Brannon, business manager of the Aces, has discarded his bowler derby and has substituted something that closely resembles a jelly dish, luridly decorated, but the music shows an improvement since the change. Tom is expected to use his jelly dish considerably tonight.

Inez Marvin Will Present Her Own Orchestra Soon

A brand new dance orchestra of nine pieces will make its radio debut from Station WGM in a few days. It will be Inez Marvin's Music Masters.

Miss Marvin, popular Atlanta entertainer, here Wednesday night, Miss Marvin, who just returned Wednesday from a tour of the Carolinas on the Paramount circuit, has made plans for her Music Masters to go out again in about a week, but during the short stay of the orchestra here it will be heard at several dances.

Miss Marvin, generally a solo entertainer, with her Music Masters, has entered a new field of entertainment, but already success is attending her work.

Vocal Numbers Will Be Heard At Six O'Clock

Two popular entertainers will supplement Warner's Seven Aces, The Constitution orchestra, at 6 o'clock tonight from Station WGM.

The entertainers are Miss Olive Walker, dramatic soprano, and Edwin Caldwell, baritone. Both have been heard in some of Station WGM's most brilliant programs. It is their success before the microphone that has brought them back so often to Station WGM listeners.

Miss Walker has been especially well received in comedy songs, and probably will feature this type of entertainment in her part of the program.

Swimming Talks By Miss Savell Start Tonight

Station WGM, the "Old Reliable" station of the south, tonight on the six to seven o'clock broadcast, will institute a new service that is in line with the progressive policy being carried out by The Constitution in radio phone activities.

Miss Pearl Fairfax Savell, noted Atlanta swimmer and teacher of swimming, at 6:30 o'clock will give the first of a series of lessons in swimming via station WGM's microphone.

Miss Savell, in addition to being a teacher of swimming, has won coveted honors in Red Cross life saving work and is especially well fitted for the work she is undertaking for Station WGM listeners.

In addition to her radio phone talks Miss Savell will make up by letter inquiries relative to swimming if these inquiries are addressed to her in care of Station WGM, The Constitution.

'Smiling Bandit' Held for Murder By Coroner's Jury

Chicago, June 27.—Fred Thompson, the man-woman-criminal charged with being the "smiling bandit" who shot and killed Richard Tesmer, today was ordered held to the grand jury, on the charge of murder by the coroner's jury investigating Tesmer's death.

The jury also recommended that the police continue their search for the male companion of the "smiling bandit," and when he is arrested, hold him on a similar charge.

Thompson was arrested again in the federal clothing store where he was arrested in his apartment with Frank Carick, there he is said to have lived as the wife of Carick and the husband of Marie Clark, arrested with Thompson and Carick.

Mrs. Tesmer, widow of the slain man, testified at the trial that Thompson was the one dressed in a female clothing who fired the shot which killed her husband as they were returning to their home in the evening.

Tesmer was killed as he and his wife were held up at the door of their garage, the woman and male bandits escaping in the Tesmer automobile.

ARKWRIGHT TO SPEAK AT MERCHANTS' MEET

"Solution of Atlanta's Transportation Problem" will be the subject of an address to be delivered by Preston S. Arkwright, chairman of the board of directors of the Georgia Railway and Power company, at the final summer membership meeting of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association at 8:15 o'clock this evening at the chamber of commerce assembly hall.

F. J. Paxson, past president of the association, and C. V. Hohenstein, secretary, will be in charge of a roundtable discussion on "Overhead."

UPSHAW'S CHALLENGE STARTS SOMETHING

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, June 27.—Winning at the Volstead act will pass out of the example for the country, the plea for personal abstinence made by President Harding at Denver, is effective. He is determined to make his administration dry personally, as well as politically, and to set an example for the country.

Since Representative Upshaw rose in the house to denounce and demand that high officials in Washington put "the devilish bottle to them, while demanding that they obey the law," there has been more consulting of consciences here than the public has been aware of. Upshaw's challenge started a general wave of criticism from drys who suspected that many officials sworn to uphold the laws had their fingers crossed, so far as prohibition applied to them personally.

It has remained for President Harding to tear all camouflage aside and discuss publicly a question that has been tabooed except in private conversations. Theoretically Washington is somewhat startled when the president, at Denver, declared steps must be taken to escape the charge "that we are a nation of hypocrites."

After assailing the rich who buy liquor in violation of the law, and those who have pre-Volstead stocks to draw from, thereby challenging the majesty of the law and impairing the moral fiber of the republic," he made this bold declaration:

"We now see how any citizen who cherishes the protection of law in organized society may feel himself exposed when he himself is the example of contempt of law."

"Whatever objection there may be in indulgence, whatever objection there is to the so-called invasion of personal liberty, neither counts when the supreme duty of the president and of our institutions are menaced."

This statement was indorsed by the drys who are in convention at West-ville, Ohio, the birthplace of the Anti-Saloon league.

In view of this unequivocal appeal, drys assume that the president himself will set the example for the country, possibly by publicly taking a pledge of abstinence. Harding has never served liquor at official white house functions, but he is expected to go further than that and declare publicly for total abstinence and ask all officials sworn to support and enforce the laws to do likewise.

The president has come to feel that the question is more than a personal one—that it involves the whole moral integrity of the country. Feeling as deeply as his "smiling bandit" would indicate, his next logical step would be to lead a crusade for voluntary observance of the Volstead act.

The Denver speech started all ball rolling, and by the time the next presidential campaign is on, the administration will go before the country dry personally as well as politically.

Winder People Witness K. K. K. Initiation Work

Winder, Ga., June 27.—(Special.) The local membership of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan put on a public ceremonial at the Winder baseball park in the initiation of new members into the order.

It had been announced a few days beforehand that the public was invited to this special ceremony, and a number of people from Winder and the country around here came, also people from nearby towns. Many strangers were among the visiting audience.

During the afternoon two klansmen in the regalia of the order rode through the principal street of the city, but were not seen by the crowd. The ceremony began at 8:30 o'clock at the ball park, and these two same klansmen were the first to ride into the open square where the ceremony took place, leading about three hundred klansmen who appeared at the same time in automobiles.

The spectators, who were estimated at about two thousand, had already assembled when the ceremony began, many of them long before. The klansmen had assembled before they came to the ball park, and rode there in cars, parking their cars around the enclosure across from the spectators. Ropes had been placed near the grandstand and klansmen patrolled the space between the crowd and those taking part in the ceremony. They asked that all be as quiet as possible while the ceremony was going on, and that none pass beyond the ropes.

There were about fifty new men to be initiated. These came in from the rear of the park as soon as the klansmen were assembled. The ceremony was carried on so silently that nothing was understood. The crowd stayed throughout the ceremony which lasted about two hours.

When it was over, the klansmen together with the new members, who were masked with white cloth over their faces, got into their cars and rode away.

It was said that there were large numbers of klansmen from the towns within a radius of twenty-five miles of Winder. There were more than a hundred cars to leave the ball park carrying from two to five klansmen each.

Speeches have been limited to five minutes each. No invitations have been issued, and the meeting will be open to any and all who are interested and who wish to attend.

From every part of the state have come representatives of the meeting. It is impossible from lack of space to print all of them. A few, however, showing the widespread interest in the movement.

Harris Will Attend.

Editor, The Constitution: It will give me pleasure to be present at the state-wide conference to be held in Atlanta Thursday evening, June 28th.

There is nothing more important, and, is absolutely necessary for the progress and prosperity of our country for the farmers' condition to be improved. Agriculture is the foundation stone of all our prosperity and today it is the weakest part of the structure. The railroads are guaranteed, under the Esch-Cummins bill a profit on their investment; the steel trust, the oil trust, and other trusts fix their prices so as to make a profit, and the protective tariff enables the manufacturers to make a profit. None of these are more important than agriculture which gets no protection and is in a deplorable condition. The railroad rates on farm products must be lowered in order to encourage the farmer to raise more products. As it is the freight rates are so high, there is no profit for the farmer after paying such high rates.

WATCH THE COLOR OF YOUR SKIN

Yellow Means You Need Calotabs, the De-Nauseated Calomel Tablet That Is Purified and Refined From Nausea and Danger.

Feel mean, look yellow? Your liver is out of tune. Your blood is being retained in your system. You need a good dose of calomel for it is the only thing that will do the work.

Why not try Calotabs, the perfected calomel tablet that is as delightful to take as it is beneficial in cleansing the liver and purifying the system? One tablet at bedtime, with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. You wake up in the morning feeling fine, with a clean liver and a hearty appetite. Eat what you please, no danger.

Genuine Calotabs are sold only in trade-marked packages. Price ten cents and thirty-five cents. The finest medicine in the world for biliousness, indigestion and constipation. So fine that your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(adv.)

When the farmer stops shipping his products the railroads cease to get this revenue and the railroads lose. It is not only the negroes who are leaving the farms of Georgia to go north, but white people as well, and next year unless farming conditions improve, although I am no pessimist, there will be three times as many white people and negroes to leave the state. They are not going to work on the farms for one-half and one-third the amount others get for work in different businesses and trades. It the exodus from the farm continues, it will be so great that no one can see food-stuff will be raised to supply the demands and then food products will be so high that it will make the question of living most difficult. The farmer must have a profit on his products, he must get low freight rates and he must get better market facilities or else there will be no prosperity in this country.

Very sincerely yours,
WILLIAM J. HARRIS,
United States Senator.

Great Service to State.

Editor Constitution: You have done the state a great service in calling a state-wide conference to discuss farm conditions, and to stimulate interest in carrying on with renewed vigor the campaign for balanced agriculture.

We must make our minds up once for all to travel a new road from now on. We must adopt a system of balanced farming. That means we must cut the cotton acreage to the bone, grow more food and feed stuffs, and give more attention to live stock, the home garden and poultry raising. To get this balanced system going we must begin at once by laying in a supply of all that will be needed to put it through. We must prepare for our land better, we must use better seed, better fertilizer, cultivate better and sell better, each of which is easily possible and each of which in turn will tend directly to more economical production, and to help pull us out on high ground.

I shall be present at the meeting Thursday evening, and believe firmly it will be the beginning of a new era in Georgia.

Brand Heartily Approves.

Editor Constitution: I heartily approve the movement inaugurated by The Constitution for better economic conditions among farmers. Unless the condition of farmers throughout the country is improved to such an extent that they may obtain for their products cost plus a reasonable profit this republic can't endure.

Hope to be with you.

Ministers Should Aid.

Editor Constitution: You have done many things of a helpful and constructive nature but nothing better than calling a meeting to make plans to carry forward the work begun by Mr. Betts.

I shall attend this meeting and shall bring as much with me as I can. Very truly yours,
V. L. BRAY,
Pastor Synnema M. E. Church.

Opportunity, Says Gelders.

Editor Constitution: Your call for a conference of leaders in the state to formulate a plan to continue the great work begun by the late George T. Betts is very opportune and serves the co-operation of all well-wishers for the future development of our agricultural resources along the line planned and advocated by him. The poorer Georgia realizes that every farm is a potential factory and that agriculture is the natural industry of Georgia and deserves the closest co-operation for its development by every organized force in the state—the sooner we will arrive at a period of fixed prosperity and consequent improved citizenship.

ISIDOR GELDERS,
Fitzgerald, Ga., June 25.

From Southern Cultivator.

Editor Constitution: It goes without saying that we favor a "sane system" of farming, as we have preached diversification, rotation, live stock in farming for more than a quarter of a century.

Even seemingly small changes will work wonders. Why if every dog in Georgia were changed into a hog, it would mean millions to our state! And the hogs would lead the sheep grow, which would mean millions more.

We have worked for a steady evolution in agriculture, but the boll weevil calls for a revolution. Let us have it.
W. L. HUNNICUTT,
Managing Editor Southern Cultivator.

Right Direction.

Editor Constitution: I read with a great deal of interest your article with reference to a balanced agricultural system for Georgia. I am in thorough sympathy with the same and believe it is work in the right direction.

Teachers Pledge Support.

Editor Constitution: The Georgia state board for vocational education through its state director, F. E. Landon, Atlanta, and its supervisors of agricultural education enthusiastically endorses the action of the Atlanta Constitution in calling a meeting to commemorate the invaluable and altruistic services rendered to the state of Georgia by George T. Betts, and to perfect plans for continuing the work that he was so ably conducting at the time of his death.

It is my plan to come to Atlanta to attend the meeting you have called for the purpose of pledging the support of our vocational teachers to any farm program that will mean permanent prosperity to the state. We offer you the services of 100 men who are farm reared and college trained.

PAUL W. CHAPMAN,
State Supervisor of Agricultural Education,
Athens, Ga., June 27.

Heartily Approves.

Editor Constitution: I desire to assure you that I am in hearty sympathy with this movement and to that end I am sending an editorial which appeared in The Macon News, Tuesday, the 19th, touching on same.

R. L. McKINNEY,
Macon, Ga., June 26.

Most Vital Question.

Editor Constitution: The Constitution is to be congratulated in the effort you are putting forth to assist in solving, or attempting to solve, the problems now facing the Georgia farmer.

The most vital question before Georgia today, in my opinion, is the welfare of the farmer. He is in need of the wise counsel of hard-headed business men, his problem is the problem of every man in the state, in as much as upon his success lies the success of almost every business industry.

The soil and climatic conditions equal or are superior to any other state in the union, and Georgia should rank among the first agricultural states. And yet with these ideal conditions existing, the Georgia farmer is unable to meet the competition.

On the Right Track.

Editor Constitution: I wish to add my little mite to the wonderful work The Constitution has started in taking the lead in a back-to-the-farm movement in Georgia. You are on the right track, and I hope you will be richly rewarded for your efforts in carrying on the work so ably started by Mr. Betts. Many people have stopped me on the street and commended the stand taken by The Constitution.

Need, Says Bell.

Editor Constitution: Your movement is what is needed in Georgia.

THOMAS M. BELL,
Congressman Ninth District,
Gainesville, Ga., June 27.

Must Be Carried On.

Editor Constitution: Rome Chamber of Commerce will have representative at your meeting. Work of Georgia association must be carried on and the work of Mr. Betts perpetuated.

Luck Played Important Part in Hagen's Defeat

On One Hole the Former Champ Misses 18-Inch Putt, Which Is Unusual, Says Robert Edgren.

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

Walter Hagen did well enough when he finished a single stroke behind the winner of the British open golf championship, Luck has a lot to do with winning golf tournaments.

When Hagen, of England, won with 295 strokes, Hagen was second with 296. Macdonald Smith third with 297 and Kirkwood fourth with 298. The slight difference between winning a championship and being merely placed is shown to be merely a matter of a lucky or an unlucky roll somewhere along the 72 holes played. There is no other sport where a trifle decides the result as it sometimes does in golf.

Hagen barely qualified for the competition, yet he came within a stroke of winning. On one hole Hagen missed an eighteen-inch putt—a thing he wouldn't do once in a year's ordinary playing. On another—a short 120-yard hole—the wind carried his masher shot from the tee into a trap, and he overshot out of the trap, finally sinking his putt for a 5 on a hole that he'd usually make in two or three strokes.

No doubt Arthur Havers, the English youngster who won, had his trifle of good and bad luck, too. Kirkwood, who was playing like a streak, slipped in one place and, after a long string of fours, had three sixes in a row, which spoiled his chances.

And Sarazen, who is fully equal to any of the players and is usually as steady and unemotional as a traffic cop, lost his chance to qualify by shooting a 75 in the morning and then blowing up with an 85 in the afternoon, needing only one stroke less to get into the championship round. Sarazen could go out with a midiron and a putter and shoot that needed 84. As George Low has been saying for the past twenty-five years, "Golf is a humbling game."

The latest alibi for Johnny Kilbane, who lost his world's featherweight championship to Eugene Criqui without letting go a real punch in defense, is that he took off weight too quickly and was too weak to fight. But Johnny had a couple of years to take off that weight. If he'd had much more time probably he'd have been too weak to walk into the ring. But never too weak to collect a $75,000 purse for "kicking his tith" a midiron.

Billy Reedy, old-time manager of boxers, says the greatest example of presence of mind he ever saw in a fight was an incident in a fight between Willie Lewis and Sailor Burke, famous middleweights of twenty years ago.

Lewis and Burke were rivals. They were always after the middleweight title and both did some great fighting, although Billy Paake, Stanley Ketchel, Mike McTear and one or two other maulers of that time were just a bit ahead of them.

At one period in the rivalry Lewis returned from France, where he had knocked out a lot of English and French fighters and gained a new reputation. Burke had been flattening the local boys. Willie and the Sailor were matched to fight in a club in Harlem.

Lewis was one of the hardest hitters in his class and Burke had a kick like that of an army mule. Both were desperate fighters while winning, but it was generally believed that neither would stand for murder while on the losing end.

The fight started like a championship, fierce slugging all the way. After a terrific exchange Burke got Lewis against the ropes and swung on his jaw with lefts and rights as fast as he could move his hands. Lewis, away from the blows, let his arms sag to his sides and seemed on the point of being knocked out.

But Burke slackened his cross fire for a moment—and—what! Lewis looked a crushing right to Burke's chin.

Presence of Mind.

Burke hit the floor on his shoulder-blades, rolled over and staggered to his feet. Lewis was after him like a tiger.

Crash! Burke crossed a right and Lewis dropped like a log. He reeled up at the count of "eight," and both swung together, both landing squarely on the chin. But went down at once and it looked like a double knockout. After a few seconds Burke raised his head and looked at Lewis, and seeing that Willie wasn't moving, rolled over and rose to his knees. Just then Lewis opened his eyes. Lewis wasn't ready to get up, but he saw Burke about to rise. So Willie rolled over and looked his leg across Burke's and held the Sailor down!

That's where Billy says Lewis showed presence of mind. If Burke had reached his feet first Willie would have stayed down. As it happened Lewis jumped up when the referee counted "nine," stood over Burke, who plumped back to his knees when he saw Willie's commanding position, and at that moment the referee yelled "ten and out."

Jess Willard has started his regular training for the fight with Firpo July 12. Willard showed his mean business when he trained into condition for Floyd Johnson in May. It took a world of hard work to remove the fat and win the best form he has shown since winning the world's championship from Jack Johnson at Havana.

Firpo has been gallivanting around from Cuba to Mexico, with side expeditions, picking up small purses and boxing duels.

Perhaps the Argentine bear doesn't think Willard will give him a fight. But with one fight under his belt, the Kansas giant is dangerous. Firpo will fight differently about it if he steps into one of Willard's right-hand punches, whether it comes straight across or sweeps over in the long up-punch that is Willard's best bet.

Waygood Is Winner.

Curragh, Ireland, June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Irish derby of 5,000 guineas, run here today, was won by W. Raphael's Waygood, owned by Tracery out of Ascenaur. D. Sullivan's Soldumeno was second and Lord Queenborough's Greek Bachelor, ridden by the American jockey Archie Bald, was third. Thirteen horses ran.

MISS EDITH CUMMINGS DEFEATED IN TOURNEY

Chantilly, June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Miss Edith Cummings, of Chicago, the only remaining American, was eliminated from the women's international golf championship play here today by Miss D. R. Fowler, of England, 2 up.

Miss Cummings, although two down at the twelfth, had a number of excellent chances afterwards to win. She got bad lies on two of her drives, however, and was unable to do better than to keep pace with her opponent throughout the remainder of the match.

MAISON WINS UPRIGHT FIGHT.

Macon, Ga., June 27.—The Peaches won a brilliant uprill battle against Augusta here this afternoon, winning out in the eighth after banging away at Satterfield all through the game. Augusta scored 5 runs in the third, four of them being driven in by Spencer, who hit a home run off Satterfield, August, scoring Lane and feeding.

The second game was called at the end of the second inning, with the score tied at one all, both teams having to catch trains. The night game was possible to play five innings of the contest, but O'Rourke and his Tigers argued throughout the entire first game, declaring it considerably.

GEORGIAN IS BLANKED 7-0

Billy Munday, the southpaw flinger of the Journal squad, turned in another shut-out for his team in the Press league when the Journal defeated the Georgian outfit 7 to 0.

Billy only allowed one hit, which is also his second consecutive performance of this nature. Miller, of the Georgian, was the only man to get a hit.

"Zev," the Wonder Horse, Goes Lame Before Race

Horse Will Be Unable to Compete in Latonia Derby Because of Lameness—Others Injured.

New York, June 27.—A stone on the Belmont race track, no larger than your thumb, put Zev, wonder horse of the season, out of the running Wednesday for the $50,000 derby at Latonia, Ky., next Saturday, and caused a complete reversal in the race odds.

Zev, picked to win the Latonia event, stepped on the stone during his final workout just before he was to be put on the train for Kentucky. The accident lamed him, and was enough to prevent him from racing in the near future. It is likely to keep him from setting a new money record as a three-year-old, just when he seemed to be having everything his own way.

Thus far Zev had outrun everything his age, and since May 3 had earned for his owner, Harry Sinclair, oil magnate, more than $100,000. He was not yet on edge when he whipped everything in the Kentucky Derby and drew down $53,000. The Belmont stakes brought him $36,000. Zev was to have carried top weight—126 pounds—in the Latonia derby, and was a heavy favorite.

Others Injured.
Misfortune was not confined to Zev alone. Three other of the greatest race horses in training in America were injured severely in workouts at Belmont Wednesday that they must be kept out of the track, perhaps for weeks. They are Grey Lag and But Lerner, stablemates of Zev, and Chickvale, owned by Harry Payne Whitney. Bud Lerner and Chickvale were to have come from the stable at Latonia, but strained tendons, eliminating them.

When Zev's trainer, Sam Hildreth, discovered Zev had gone lame, he phoned Jimmy Rowe, Whitney trainer, to shoot everything he had for Latonia as Zev was not going. "You can have nothing on me," answered Rowe. "Chickvale has broken down, too."

As a result of these upsets Rowe has decided to send Rinto to the West for training. He is now at the Martingale. Neither figured to have a chance with Zev in the race. The Kentucky race is now an open stake.

Sullivan's Rally Earns Verdicts Over Sheppard

Hooty Flahive Unable to Fight Because of Boil, and Dale-Mayo Fight Is Stopped.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Nothing but a sharp rally after all appearances of being downed, to take an artistic beating gave Hollis Sullivan the verdict in his 10-round bout with Jordan Sheppard. Macao youngster, last night at Spiller's outdoor punch arena, Sullivan came back as welcome to his friends as pulled fans at the equator, for it electrified him safely out of a situation that looked dangerous.

Sheppard piled up an enormous lead in the first three rounds. He was aided by several pounds advantage in weight and was using it to splendid effect until Sullivan came to his senses and launched a savage attack that not only stopped Sheppard's show of aggressiveness, but put the Maconian on the defensive for the rest of the fight. This was a good break, as the story might have been far different had Sheppard clung to the chasing style he adopted at the start of hostilities.

After the fourth it was Sullivan's fight all the way. He didn't win every round, but succeeded in earning a draw in those that didn't win by a mile. This, of course, was a reduced Jordan's margin and he was trailing by some distance at the close.

But during the first three rounds Sheppard was a deadly menace to Hollis' welfare.

The blow that started Sheppard on the downward trail was a hard right to the stomach that left him gasping. So busy was the Atlanta coach hunting Jordan's button that he could not see the danger.

Will Not Affect Holding of Bout, Other Officials State—Motion Picture Contract Remains Unplaced.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Shelby, Mont., June 27.—Dan Tracy, pioneer Great Falls mining and hotel owner, suddenly withdrew from the position of executive in charge of the business management of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight early tonight.

Tracy said his withdrawal was due to his inability to adequately protect the new capital put into the promotion at the time the second $100,000 installment was paid Dempsey June 15.

Mayor Jim Johnson, treasurer of the fight, said Tracy's withdrawal would not prevent the holding of the bout.

Tracy was placed in charge of the business management of the fight 10 days ago at the request of Great Falls business men, who had contributed to the $100,000 installment due Dempsey at a time when it appeared that the money would not be raised.

I came here to see that the Great Falls men who have $12,000 tied up in this fight, got their money back," Tracy said. "It's not in sight now and I'm going back to report to them. I am through with this fight, and connection with the fight. I can't say whether the Great Falls people will send somebody else here to represent them."

Tracy left for Great Falls tonight. Whether Tracy's withdrawal leaves the business affairs of the fight entirely in the hands of the original promoters was uncertain tonight although they assumed immediate charge after Tracy announced his retirement.

Contract for Pictures Not Placed.
Disposition of motion picture rights for the Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight championship July 4, is in the hands of Shelby fight promoters.

After dickering all day with local officials, Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, today turned over the rights in the films, amounting to 32 per cent of the proceeds, into the hands of Mayor Jim Johnson, treasurer of the fight. Loy J. Morley, American Legion commander, Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, and Mike Collins, matchmaker, for disposal as they saw fit.

Despite definite assurances by local fight officials that they will have the final $100,000 guaranteed the champion July 2, when it is due, Kearns said he believed it was "still uncertain" at this time, whether the money would be available. Until there is a break of contract, which does not provide for payment of the third $100,000 until July 2, he will go ahead with plans for the fight, he declared.

In response to a point blank question, Kearns said Johnson had told him the final $100,000 would be paid him by the city of Shelby Saturday. The champion's manager smiled skeptically, however, and asserted that he had not been informed as to from what source the money was to come nor how it was to be raised.

Under a burning sun, which rapidly dried streets flooded again last night by a heavy downpour, Gibbons continued his training today.

East Meets West Today In Annual Race on Hudson

Navy, Syracuse, Washington, Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania Are Entered.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 27.—As the sun sank back of the Catskills Wednesday night five crews from the east and one from the west pulled their shells out of the water, gave a last look before the intercollegiate struggle on the Hudson on the morning of June 28.

For the first time in several years it was difficult to come near dipping the winner. The navy eight, winners of the classic of the last two years, performed indifferently in the final workouts and lost prestige accordingly.

It seemed to veteran observers that Washington and Columbia would have equal chance with the middies in coping first place. Syracuse, big, fast and powerful, will also be in the running, but backers of Cornell and Pennsylvania were few and far between.

Besides the varsity race there are two others, which should work the audience up to a thrill. A junior varsity affair will be staged, as well as a freshman encounter. Syracuse has odds for the junior varsity paddle while even better should be waged between Washington and Cornell for freshmen honors.

Crews Practice.
All crews were out paddling over the Hudson Wednesday with the coaches following closely. All seemed pleased with the drills and no changes in any of the boatloads were expected. Don Walling, Washington stroke, was forced to watch practice from the boat house on account of an infected knee, is expected to take his place Thursday with France, who has been setting the pace, moved back to his old position at number 4.

It is expected that in the varsity race the navy will shoot right out in an effort to establish the lead, the same as it has done in the past. How the others will take the program is uncertain. Washington may decide on keeping a close distance of the midshipmen for the first mile. Then a series of spurts and dashes should feature, with Columbia and Syracuse letting out. It is expected that after the first mile the eight will make about 33 strokes a minute and will probably be hitting 38 in the home stretch.

The "gentlemen four-oared" informal race scheduled between the Navy and Cornell for late Wednesday afternoon was called off, claiming they'd need every man for the big classic.

Washington, June 27.—The quotas of large cities will be cut in future tournaments for the annual public links golf championship under a decision of the public links committee of the United States Golf Association. Meeting here at the call of James D. Standish, of Detroit, the committee decided that to make future tournaments more representative of the entire country it would be necessary to reduce the numbers of players from the 12 centers of population.

The committee also decided that next year's championship meeting should go westward. Dayton, Ohio, is a strong bidder.

Washington, June 27.—Three golfers from New York city, two from Philadelphia and one each from Buffalo, Portland, Ore., and Cincinnati, remained in the second national public links championship at the conclusion of play today at East Potomac park here.

The first and second match play rounds of tournament today were marked by six extra hole matches—five in the morning and one in the afternoon. Ray J. Cliffe, of Buffalo, took the medal in the qualifying round yesterday, figured in extra hole matches both morning and afternoon, winning from J. G. Fraser, of New York, on the nineteenth, while E. F. Lloyd, of Chicago, later took him to the twentieth hole before McAuliffe won.

McAuliffe will meet Frank Dolan, of Philadelphia, Ore., late tomorrow morning, while Harry Scharff, of New York, will play J. Stewart Whitman, also of New York, in the afternoon. In the other half, Richard Walsh, New York, came in with a 154, finishing his round which was stopped by darkness last night.

L. Gordon Haw, of Seattle, finished third with 155. Henry Decker, the Kansas City star, failed to qualify by one stroke when he turned in a 165.

The complete list of 32 players to qualify, with their scores and pairings for the match play, follows:

Ray J. Cliffe, Buffalo, 153 vs. J. G. Fraser, New York, 161.
E. B. Lloyd, Chicago, 158 vs. Ed. Hayden, Milwaukee, 163.
Frank Dolan, Portland, Ore., 162 vs. Bernard McFarland, Pittsburgh, 167.
William F. Serrie, New York, 160 vs. Ed. Curtin, Newark, 164.
L. Gordon Haw, Seattle, 155 vs. Henry Scharff, New York, 165.
Walter Crowe, Chicago, 159 vs. C. E. Sommer, New York, 163.

L. Thoren, New York, 157 vs. Samuel Graham, Pittsburgh, 168.
J. Stewart Whitman, New York, 160 vs. Carl F. Kauffman, Pittsburgh, 164.
John Dawson, Chicago, 154 vs. Joseph Schre, New York, 161.
John MacAndrew, Boston, 158 vs. David O'Connor, Chicago, 163.
C. Edgar Simms, Buffalo, 157 vs. L. S. Orell, Baltimore, 162.
Richard Walsh, New York, 160 vs. Fred Hammond, Boston, 164.
J. H. Boyd, Philadelphia, 156 vs. Earl McKelvey, Washington, 162.
J. B. Curran, Jr., St. Louis, 160 vs. Joseph C. Voigt, Philadelphia, 164.
George J. Voigt, Philadelphia, 157 vs. R. F. Hamman, Philadelphia, 162.
G. T. Coldburn, Toledo, 161 vs. Lawrence Mules, Baltimore, 164.

The colored business men will cross bats with the white ones this Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Morris Brown university diamond. The players on both teams are men who have been stars on their several college teams during their school days, and while there may not be any Babe Ruths in the bunch the fans will get their money's worth when the umpire calls the game Saturday.

L. Lockhart and Dr. Neal are the captains of the business men and doctors.

To control the Seine river when it is a source of danger to the communities along its banks and to Paris during the flood period, a new plan is to build 23 large reservoirs along its banks.

Q.—A bets B that a ball can be lifted from any place on the course, whether in a trap or not, and teed up under a penalty of two strokes. B says a ball lifted from an unplayable lie has to be carried back, dropped and played from where the previous stroke was played. Which is right?

A.—In medal play, a ball can be lifted from any place and teed up back of that spot with a penalty of two strokes. If the player prefers, he can go back to where the previous stroke was played, drop the ball, count the previous stroke, and add one penalty stroke and play from there. If the previous stroke was played from the tee, he can tee up again. In match play, the player must go back to B's contents, just as explained above.

Q.—How is the honor decided in the following case? On the preceding green, A, who is receiving strokes from B, holes according to the card was entitled to a stroke there. B had a 5. On the hole before that one, A had the honor.

A.—A retains the honor. Net scores for the hole determine the honor for the next hole. A halved with the help of his stroke, so retains the honor.

Q.—Where a ball is lifted from casual water, does the player have to go back of the water to drop the ball, as in lifting from a water hazard?

A.—No. He can drop anywhere within two club lengths of the water so long as he doesn't drop nearer the hole, or if on the putting green, he is allowed to place the ball so as to save him from having to putt over casual water, without the two club length limitation, though no nearer the hole.

Send in your questions to Innis Brown. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A TIP FOR THE ROUND.
Standstill says: think the things to remember in putting are to keep the eye on the ball, to take the club back mostly with the wrists, to hit the ball cleanly and to let the club follow through support. Remember: Of all things, take care that you do not stab the ball, that is hit with a jerk and stop the club. A ball hit thus will not run through the hole.

and
Woman's WorkMiss Dickey Weds Mr. Stevens
At Lovely "Arden" Wednesday

A brilliant company gathered at the lovely "Arden," the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Lafayette Dickey in Pace's Ferry road, Wednesday evening to witness the marriage of their only daughter, Miss Katherine Dickey, to Arthur Stevens, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dana Stevens, of Savannah.

The ceremony took place in the wide hall where a carpet of white satin was spread extending the length of the stairs down which came the bride party.

The Rev. John R. Gunn, bishop of Mississippi, performed the ceremony. A lovely altar, banked with palms and white flowers and lighted with tall candelabra was placed at one end of the hall. Strands of electric candles lighted the stairway and hall and clusters of white lilies starred the stairway between these softly gleaming lights. White satin pews were placed in front of the flower-canopied altar.

The Bridal Party.

As the bride party came down the stairway led by the bride, the beautiful wedding march from Lohengrin. The bridesmaids were Miss Anne Reed, of Savannah; Miss Marion Smith, Miss Nell Sims, Miss Katherine Hook, Mrs. George Marion Fletcher, of New York, and Mrs. John Stevens, of Savannah.

They wore charming gowns of silken net of a soft shade of roses, accented with gold and silver and gracefully fashioned and worn with golden slippers. They carried lovely bouquets of garden flowers in pastel shades in Dresden effect.

Miss Wilmontine Perdue, who was the maid of honor, wore a gown of accented pleated golden net made over cloth of gold. She wore slippers of gold and carried a shower bouquet of the same lovely flowers. Those of the bridesmaids with yellow predominating.

The Matron of Honor.

Mrs. James L. Dickey, the bride's mother, was matron of honor. She entered alone directly before the fair young bride, who came down the stairs with her father, James Lafayette Dickey. Mrs. Dickey wore a beautiful gown of orchid chiffon and carried a bouquet of orchids and the mauve and orchid shades predominated.

The four flower girls were Carol Hopkins, Helen Smith, Mary Wilson Dickey and Mabel Dickey. They wore lovely little frocks of white and pink and carried bouquets of pink roses trimmed with old thread lace ruffles centered with rosebuds.

Across the shoulders were silver ribbons, French flowers, white slippers and silken hose and all had their hair banded with silver. They carried baskets filled with garden flowers.

The groom was William Dickey and Curry Moon.

The groom had as his best man his brother, Dana Stevens, the groom's men, who were all from Savannah, were Armand Hunter, T. A. Bryson, Horace Rattey, Courtney Tew, Jack Lindsay and John Stevens.

The Radiant Bride.

The bride presented a radiant appearance in her imported white wedding robe embroidered in crystals, rhinestones and silver, fashioned over a miniature gown of white and pink. The long court train fell in graceful lengths from the shoulders, was bordered with wide bands of cloth of silver and finished at the ends with clusters of orange blossoms. The veil of misty tulle was edged with Duchesse and rose point lace of exquisite design which was fast to the bride by her god-mother, Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, by whom it was worn on her own wedding day. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley arranged in a cascade shower.

The Wedding Reception.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception followed on the lawn, which was brilliant with strings of lights and where the scene was one of great beauty and grace.

The bride's table was also placed on the lawn. The bride and groom and the members of the bridal party were seated at this table. In the center was placed a miniature pool, out of which rose a tiny fountain splashing cooling waters colored with softly glowing lights. Pink gladioli, lilies of the valley, white swansonia and feathery ferns fringed the rim of the pool.

The favors for the bridesmaids were silken net bags filled with rice and for the men white satin horns also filled with rice.

Souvenirs were exquisite white more vanity boxes bearing on the outside the initials of the bride and groom and within containing powder and lipstick. Black more match cases, bearing the bride and groom's initials in gold, were presented to the men. Silken bags filled with silken rose petals, with which the bride's party were showered, were also placed on the table. White mints, embossed with the initials of bride and groom, and crystallized orange blossoms filled the silver compotes, which adorned the table.

The Receiving Party.

The wedding guests were seated for supper at small tables decorated with French baskets filled with Dresden flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickey were assisted in receiving by Mrs. and Mrs. H. D. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Cook, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Dana Stevens, all of Savannah; Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Stevens, of New York; Mrs. H. D. Stevens, the groom's mother, wore white chiffon combined with rare Carrick macross lace and veil of cloth of silver.

Mrs. Dewey Cook, the groom's sister, was gowned in a Paquin model of rose pink headed chiffon over silver cloth. She carried a pink feather fan matching in color.

Mrs. Dana Stevens wore a Hol-lander gown of white more satin. Mrs. Carroll Payne was gowned in an exquisite dress of coral-headed georgette.

Mrs. Floyd Jefferson wore lavender crepe romaine.

During the reception Mr. and Mrs. Stevens left on their wedding trip for Cape Cod.

Mrs. Stevens' lovely going-away gown was of white tulle with wide tucks and collared with summer ermine. With this she wore a navy blue kid hat trimmed with white kid flowers and she carried a handsome golden mesh bag, the groom's wedding gift.

She gave the groom a handsome cigarette case with golden initials and inlaid with ebony. She presented her bridesmaids with exquisite strings of pearls with platinum clasps set with diamonds. The groom gave his attendants green gold belt buckles.

The Wedding Gifts.

It is seldom that a more magnificent array of gifts is seen than those at this wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Dickey presented the young couple with a substantial check. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens gave a chest of flat silver especially designed by Tiffany.

The bride's paternal grandmother and great-grandmother gave a massive silver service with kettle and large tray.

Handsome silver goblets were given by the bridesmaids. The groomsmen gave a grandfather's clock of mahogany and rosewood and with silver Canterbury chimes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana Stevens gave handsome silver vegetable dishes.

On their return from the wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will occupy their new home which has been built for them in Savannah.

As Miss Katherine Dickey Mrs. Stevens has enjoyed a wide popularity in Atlanta since her entrance into society several seasons ago. She was educated at Notre Dame and at Washington seminary. She has traveled extensively in America and in Europe and is cultured and very pretty.

Mr. Stevens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Stevens, of Savannah, Ga., a family of distinguished ancestry and is identified with important business interests in that city. He attended school at Ramsey Hall and later at Hotchkiss. During the war he was in the navy, was detailed at Newport, R. I., and served in command of a submarine chaser.

Mrs. Hill Gives Silver Tea.

Mrs. B. H. Hill will entertain the women of the Grace Methodist church at a silver tea Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock at her home, 515 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Miss Reid Weds
Mr. Bowen at Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Virginia Reid, formerly of Atlanta, and Paul Eugene Bowen was an event of interest to Atlantans and took place at nuptial high noon Wednesday morning, June 27, at 9 o'clock at the church of Our Lady of the Angels in Jacksonville, Fla.

The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. William J. Barry, pastor of the church, and was witnessed by only immediate relatives.

There were no attendants and the bride was given in marriage by her father, Robert Caldwell Reid. The groom's brother, Edward Bowen, of Augusta, acted as best man.

The altar was decorated with palms and Asclepias lilies.

The lovely bride wore a gown of white chiffon, headed in crystal design, and her hat was of white straw, trimmed with valley lilies. She wore a corsage of valley lilies and orchids.

Mrs. Reid, mother of the bride, was gowned in white georgette crepe, and her hat of white straw was trimmed with gardenias.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Bowen, mother of the groom, wore a gown of white crepe de chine, and her hat matched in color.

Mrs. Harvey J. Hintelman, of Rumson, N. J., an aunt of the bride, wore blue georgette crepe headed in crystal and her hat of blue straw, was flower trimmed.

Mrs. John H. Jones, of Atlanta, grandmother of the bride, was gowned in black crepe de chine, and her hat of black was trimmed in small black flowers.

Mrs. Fred Calkins, of Jacksonville, an aunt of the bride, wore a gown of green crepe de chine, and a hat of black straw, trimmed with Paradise feathers.

Mrs. and Mrs. Bowen left after the ceremony for a motor trip through Florida, and on their return will reside with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Reid, on Oak street, until they go to housekeeping in the fall.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reid, and is a young woman of unusual charm and beauty. She graduated from Washington seminary, and with her parents, moved to Jacksonville for residence two years ago. She is a descendant of a prominent family in the history of the state, and her great-grandfather, the late Dr. R. A. Caldwell, was one of the most notable physicians in Atlanta. Her father, Mr. Reid, is prominent in insurance circles in the south.

Mr. Bowen is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bowen, well known citizens of Jacksonville. He is descended from distinguished ancestry, and is connected with the Middle Lee company. Mr. Bowen is prominent socially.

Party Is Given At "Cloverland."

A social event of Friday was a splendid party in honor of Miss Fannie Mae, a bride-elect of this month, given by Mrs. C. M. Cleveland at her home, Cloverland, in East Atlanta.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the dining room, which was decorated with roses. The luncheon table had a lace cover and the centerpiece was an elaborate cake adorned with a miniature. The afternoon musical program was given and at 4 o'clock a group of swimming was enjoyed in the Cloverland swimming pool.

Those present were Misses Delia Gladden, Fannie Mae White, Susie Gladden, Mable Mathis, Mattie Sue White, Evelyn Cleveland, Wynette Cleveland, Mrs. H. G. White, Mrs. E. Gladden, Mrs. T. A. White, Mrs. I. J. Born and others.

Mrs. Cleveland was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. I. J. Born.

Bellingrath-Craig Marriage
Is Solemnized in Decatur

Prominent among the lovely home weddings was that of Miss Mary Alberta Bellingrath and the Rev. Augustus Rochester Craig which was solemnized at 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bellingrath, in Decatur.

The Rev. D. P. McGeachy, of the Decatur Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. George C. Bellingrath, brother of the bride.

A group of palms and graceful ferns formed a background for the tall cathedral candles in silver holders which made a pretty setting at the end of the long library for the bridal party. The entire lower floor of the home was decorated in garden flowers which added a bright color to the lovely scene.

The musical program included Lohegrin's wedding march and Macdowell's "To a Wild Rose" which was played during the ceremony.

The bridal party which descended the stairs and crossed the living room to the library, was announced by the appearance of the ribbon bearers, Miss Carolina Bellingrath and Miss Elmore Bellingrath, small sister and cousin of the bride. Their charming frocks were of crisp orchid organdie over pink silk and they carried old-fashioned posies of pink and lavender sweet peas.

They were followed by the only bride's maid, Miss Martha Lewis, cousin of the bride, who entered alone. She wore a dainty white gown of hand-embroidered French voile in a delicate shade of pink. Her flowers were lavender and pink sweet peas showered with lavender ribbons.

Miss Lillie Bellingrath was her sister's maid of honor and was a charming figure in lavender georgette over pink taffeta. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas similar to that of the bridesmaid, showered with pink ribbons.

Preceding the bride was the little ringbearer, Eula Felton Council, of Americus, cousin of the bride, who was dressed in pale pink georgette and carried the ring in a lily. An interesting fact concerning the ring is that it was fashioned out of the wedding ring of the bride's great-grandmother.

The bride descending the stairs alone entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Marcus Craig, of Anderson, S. C., who acted as best man.

The bride made a charming appearance in her bridal attire of soft white silk crepe which was combined with hand-embroidered georgette. Her only ornaments were rare pearls exquisitely set in old-fashioned settings. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with handsome lace and beautifully appointed in every detail. A silver service, cup filled with roses, graced the center and was surrounded by silver candlesticks and silver bonbon dishes.

Mrs. A. F. Bellingrath, mother of the bride, was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Albert Bellingrath, and her sisters, Mrs. L. G. Council, Mrs. Charles Council, of Americus; Mrs. J. C. Lewis, and by Misses Helen and Julia Bellingrath, and Mrs. Craig, of Anderson, South Carolina.

Lunch was served by Misses Frances Orr, of Houston, Texas; and Catherine Glenn.

Miss Elsa Denk kept the bride's book.

The bride's mother wore a lovely model of midnight blue more silk and a corsage bouquet of roses.

Mrs. Craig, mother of the groom, was gowned in gray canton crepe, and Mrs. Albert Bellingrath, the bride's grandmother, was handsomely gowned in black crepe.

After a wedding journey to the mountains of North Carolina, Rev. and Mrs. Craig will make their home in Durant, Oklahoma.

The bride traveled in a stylish model of dark blue flat crepe with touches of silver gray. Her wrap matched her gown, and her hat was of gray straw trimmed in blue flowers.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Craig, Miss Craig, Marcus and Roy Craig, of Anderson, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Council, Miss Elizabeth Council, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Council, Charles Council, Jr., and Miss Eula Felton Council, Mrs. Robert R. Moore, Carl Ansley, Anthony Council, of Americus, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bellingrath, Miss Elmore Bellingrath, of Montgomery, Ala.; Miss Virginia Brown, Selma, Ala.; Miss Frances Orr, Houston, Texas; Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Morrison, Durant, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rochester, Norcross, Ga.

Mrs. Craig is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bellingrath and the granddaughter of the late Albert Bellingrath, prominent pioneer citizen of Atlanta, and of the late George W. Council, well-known financier of Americus, Ga. She graduated recently from Assembly's Bible school in Richmond, Va., and has been a student of music for a number of years in the Burill School of Music.

Dr. Craig is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Marcus Craig, of Anderson, S. C. He is a graduate of Davidson college with A. B. and M. A. degrees and of Union Theological seminary, of Richmond, Va., from which he received the B. D. degree.

Bridge Club Is Entertained.

Mrs. W. D. Clark entertained the Vacation Bridge club at her home in Olympic Hills, Tuesday.

Beautiful spring flowers decorated the gracious rooms where the game was played.

The prizes were a comfort and a dainty hand-made handkerchief and were won by Mrs. R. H. Lee and Mrs. R. L. Langston.

Those present were Mrs. R. H. Lee, Mrs. M. H. Turner, Mrs. J. A. Flew, Mrs. B. B. Waller, Mrs. R. L. Langston, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. S. C. Moore, Mrs. Willingham, Mrs. P. H. Monroe, Mrs. Denton and Mrs. W. D. Clark.

Bridge-Luncheon For Visitor.

Mrs. Omar F. Elder gave a small informal bridge-luncheon at her home on Muscogee road Wednesday in compliment to Mrs. Hayden C. Jones, guest, Miss Hester Hill, of Indiana.

Varicolored garden flowers were used in profusion in the apartments where the card tables were placed. The game was played in the morning, after which luncheon was served.

The prize for top score was a novelty vanity case. The consolation was a double-deck box of Scotch whisky and playing cards and Miss Hill was presented dainty hand-made handkerchiefs.

Miniature corsage bouquets of varicolored fruit drops were attractive favors, marking the places and the score cards bore patriotic emblems and colorings.

Mrs. Elder wore a morning frock of green crepe.

The invited guests were Miss Hester Hill, Mrs. Hayden C. Jones, Miss Bessie Kepton, Mrs. Harry H. Johnson, Mrs. Colquitt C. Cole, Mrs. Joshy Swanson, Mrs. Roy C. Morrison, Mrs. Tom Allen, Mrs. Morton M. Rollefson, Mrs. William Owens, and Mrs. Francis East of Birmingham, and Mrs. Karl W. Brittain.

Hair Often Ruined by Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Multifid coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonsful is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rises out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous.

When Hearts Command

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

Gaunt, going over his farm accounts in the little library which opened directly on to the garden, became conscious of a shadow in the doorway, and lifted his eyes. Alice was standing there looking at him, her face white, the open sheets of a letter in her hand. Her expression startled him, and he rose in alarm, asking if anything were amiss with her mother.

"No, mummy's asleep," she replied. She came into the room and sat down on the opposite side of the table, he was using for a desk.

"Here's a letter I found," she said. "It was addressed to me and I opened and read it. Perhaps my father wrote it because he was mad. He says he was not my father. He says you and mummy cared a great deal for each other and were so creely married—but that the marriage wasn't legal, and he married her afterwards because of—of me. Is that true?"

Gaunt met her eyes steadily.

"It is true," he said. "May I see the letter? Or would you rather—"

"Oh, yes, please read it."

"She handed over the closely written sheets, and leaned back with a sigh. It was a wiser letter than one would have expected from poor, eccentric Hugo, although, to be sure, he passed through its pages as one who knows himself to be a hero. He wanted her to be told, he said, in the event of his death, all he had done for her and her mother; and it was just as well she should know, since Philip Ardenne was so bigoted on the subject of insanity. It might relieve his prejudiced mind.

Hugo had written down the whole story, and towards the end, becoming rambling and discursive, had dragged in the tale of his heroism with regard to Carrie Egan.

"She had a little boy," he wrote, "that took after some ancestor with queer blood, and Tony was so cruel to her about it. He wouldn't acknowledge the child as his, and insisted upon its being sent away and nobody knowing of its existence. That was what the trouble was about, and nobody could blame her for what she did. I won't say what it was she did do, but anyway, I didn't kill Tony."

"Well?" Gaunt looked up, his eyes slightly haggard. "You can blame me as much as you like, but if you blame your mother—"

"I don't!" Alice cried. "How can you imagine I would?"

"But why—why—didn't you tell me? It would have made such a difference."

"Would it? In what way?"

"Oh, I don't know. Perhaps I'm wrong. I guess I've made a muddle of things, altogether. But it isn't too late. It seems strange to think of you as my father."

"You don't like it?" Gaunt asked quickly.

"Yes—I do like it," Alice replied. "It's been a shock. That's all."

He sat looking at Alice with an air of clumsy wistfulness. She leaned over and touched his hand.

"Father," she said, "it will be all right between you and mummy now. I'm glad. I think it's wonderful how you've cared for each other, yet have been so brave. Particularly mummy."

Gaunt laid his face against her hand.

"Thank you, my dear. Thank you very much. Now go to your mother. Tell her what you know. She's been carrying a great burden—not sure whether you ought to be told or not—and this settles it. She'll be glad Hugo himself told you."

One day, about a month after Hugo's death, there arrived at the Villa Tatiana one Philip Ardenne, husband of Alice.

Miss Jacquelin Moore will entertain at a swimming party at the Piedmont Driving club.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

The Boat-shaped Neck and Baby Sleeves Are Charming in the Young Girl's Frock.

"I am no longer young—but I may still be charming. When I was young youth was essential to charm, but it is different now. A woman need no longer become passeé. She need no longer put away youthful clothes just because youth has gone."

So say the women of 45. She says it now and she has said something very much like it since the Stone age, no doubt. She always feels that it is all quite recent—this possibility for the older woman to charm.

She feels that today—always today—the woman of her age may have the advantage over the woman of 20. She is wise, however, if she does not wear the clothes that are designed for the woman of 20. Is it not enough to persuade yourself—Mrs. Forty-five—that there are certain fashions, certain fabrics, certain decorations that you may wear that youth may not? If you appropriate as your own the chance of classic drapery, the dignity of trains, the sumptuousness of beauty velvets, or jet, or of plumed hats—beautiful things too stately for a —go slow!—and the other styles that we refer to as "matronly."

Beware of the boat-shaped neckline, says a dressmaker of more than ordinary wisdom when advising older customers. Also avoid the "line of demarcation," the round collarless effect.

And always avoid pink roses—on your hat or in your hair or as ornament to your gown. If you must buy them, buy them for your daughter, or some one else's daughter.

You may think it charming—the frock shown in the sketch—but if you are on the plump side of 25, don't try to wear one like it. It's light pink satin crepe with silver lace, and it is trimmed with pink ribbons, and it has baby sleeves, and it has the bateau neckline—so beware. It is a thing for youth.

Just Apply This Paste and the Hairs Will Vanish

(Boudoir Secrets)

The judicious use of a delatone paste insures any woman a clear, hairless skin. To prepare the paste, mix a little of the powdered delatone with some water, then apply to the objectionable hairs for two or three minutes. When the paste is removed, and the skin washed, every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain attends the use of the delatone and it will not mar the most sensitive skin, but to insure results, see that you get real delatone.—(adv.)

THE BATHING GIRL.

The strong sun that comes at the end of June and lasts all through July and August need have no terrors for the bathing girl if she takes a few precautions. And the first thing to consider is the bathing suit.

Now the less one has on, in the way of frills and flounces, the easier and pleasanter it is to swim or bathe. But if you burn easily and want to keep your skin moderately white, you simply must not go in for bathroom decollete on the beach. Personally,

I'm in favor of one-piece wool bathing suits for every one pretty enough to wear one, keeping the more prudish suits for those not blessed with a pretty figure. But the censors of bathing beach morals don't look at it that way, I know. This, however, is a digression.

If you want to protect your skin from the sun, have your suit cut with a V opening and a wee collar that covers the back of the neck, and with sleeves half way to the elbow. It's easy to protect the face and throat and lower arms, but not the back of the shoulders.

Before going on the beach rub the skin full of heavy cold cream, then cover thickly with powder so it won't get shiny in the sun. The sea water will wash off the powder, but that doesn't matter. It won't wash off much of the cream.

In spite of this treatment you may burn. If so, rub the skin with milk or buttermilk at night and use cucumber lotion or peroxide cold cream after you have washed off the heavy cream put on with your bathing suit. Such precautions are easy to take, and pay.

Jeanette F.—When you purchase a vibrator you will get the different attachments. The one with the teeth is for the scalp, and the best one for the complexion is the small, hard, round nozzle. In using a vibrator for scalp, a deep treatment is very beneficial; but when giving a skin treatment only, the lightest touch is best. The reason for this is the danger to some people of breaking the tiny veins directly under the skin. Such an accident would not happen except in an extreme case, but when using a hand vibrator it is well to know about this, as many people unconsciously rest the weight of the machine on the parts they are treating. In the professional treatment for the face there are the lightest of touches, just enough to bring the blood to the surface and increase circulation, but any one may do this same thing with a hand machine.

Mrs. Woods White Gives Tea for Canadian Guest

Mrs. Gordon W. Myrick, of Kingston, Ontario, Canada, who is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Woods White, was the guest of honor at a charming tea given Wednesday by Mrs. White at the Atlanta Woman's club. Silver baskets filled with garden flowers were placed on the tea table.

Mrs. White's afternoon gown was of black lace with a bodice of Dresden ribbons. She was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Albert Staton, Mrs. C. L. Emerson and Mrs. Paul Potter. Twenty-four guests were entertained.

Friday Mrs. White will compliment her guest at a spend-the-day party at her country home, Woodstock, inviting a small group of the honoree's former friends to meet her.

Date of other parties will be announced later.

SOMETHING NEW.

Is expansion your policy in cooking? Of this you may be sure. If you do not definitely make an effort to broaden your repertoire in cooking it will naturally narrow itself down until your cuisine consists of the fewest possible number of dishes.

There are, broadly speaking, three possible sources for increasing the number of dishes you can prepare. You may learn first from the instruction of experts either in schools or cookery or by reading cook books; you may learn from observation of dishes served at restaurants or the homes of acquaintances, or you may widen your scope simply by the exercise of your own originality and ingenuity.

To widen one's repertoire through the last means requires real culinary talent; however, it is a talent that may be developed by practice. Let us say that you want a salad for dinner. Instead of looking through the pages of a cook book you look through your own refrigerator to see what you have on hand; you look about at the market and grocery store for seasonable foods and you use your imagination in figuring out combinations that will be palatable. There is one danger in this sort of experimenting. That is that you will consult only your own taste and that some of the combinations, while appetizing to you, strike others as rather hopeless messes.

Comparisons Are Not Odious

—Notwithstanding one of our pet sayings to the contrary! Everything is relative (read on, please, we are not going to expound Einstein!)

Only by comparison do we arrive at the true worth of any commodity.

One asks: "How much is property worth at Five Points?"—and the reply: "Mr. Blank sold a lot there recently at $10,000 per front foot!"—your value is at once established—by comparison. A more concrete instance, this time in merchandise—suppose we say silk stockings.

One sees them advertised, say at $1.00, possibly "Regular $2.00 values!"

How is one to know what $1.00 should buy in silk stockings?—by comparison. Examine silk stockings at $1.00 carefully—then buy the best quality at the price.

Study Qualities—learn what your money should buy!

Let us help you—our salespeople are ready to show you the best quality for the price in any line of merchandise.

Lou-Lou

BY H. BEDFORD-JONES

Next Week, "Riddles"
By Irving Bacheller

One of the seamen staggered back to the rail, clasped both hands to his breast, then threw one agonized look to the sky, then slumped against the rail and began to gulp blood.

From the swirling mass of men on the deck broke an inarticulate sound. Barak had laughed.

Before the left ankle was clamped to a deck-rail, the seaman clinging to the rail had collapsed in a limp heap, with death on his graying face.

But finally the two ankles of the seaman were manacled fast to ringbolts. With infinite caution ten men then began to unfold the wrappings of the net in which Barak had been ensnared and brought aboard. But as they jerked it from him, his arms suddenly moved. Each seized in a terrible grip one of the crew and when he released them both were dead.

At length, unable to move any extent, Barak lay spread-eagled. His flaming eyes looked up at the crimson figure of Rais Hamed in a steady, unflinching gaze. The three dead men were laid aside.

The others squatted around once more, panting, a red glare in their muddy eyes.

Now the silence chimed the musical, sweetly soft voice of Rais Hamed:

"Welcome, O guest, sent by Allah! Have you no reply to make to my country?"

Barak gazed upward.

"That is said," pursued Rais Hamed. "I have learned that it was you who released Sultan Lou-Lou from the prison place where Tuan Hamed had confined her in America. I shall reward you richly for this service, O lightning! Are you comfortable, my guest? I fear there is too much cold wind upon you. Ho, slaves! Warmth for my master's guest!"

With grins, two men loosened the lashings of the iron cylinders.

Rais Hamed leaned back and sucked at his pipe, watching Barak. Presently, with the regular back-and-forth roll of the deck, the cylinders, now quite red from the fire in their bellies, began to move upon their rollers. With each roll one of them moved forward until it touched the body of Barak—first on one side, then upon the other.

The silken sarong about his body began to smolder, and the creeping red moved along his body from his shoulder. There began to rise a singular odor, that was mingled from silk and from flesh.

But Barak lay quite motionless, and his eyes did not waver from the face of Rais Hamed.

Suddenly, with a gesture of distaste, Rais Hamed came to his feet. "Wallah!" he ejaculated disgustedly. "This is not a man—it is an angel! And it is written that all true believers should destroy images. By tomorrow, or next week, he will be more appreciative of our hospitality. Speak, guest! One word, and you go free."

Rais Hamed leaned forward, waiting. The men around laughed and chuckled.

"Well, enough of this!" snapped the old pirate. "Since I have but one eye, it is clearly an insult that he should appear before me with two eyes. Have I none to avenge me on this insult?"

Three of the men leaped forward, their knives drawn. For a moment they were heaped over the head of Barak. Then they withdrew. The left eye of Barak disappeared.

Then the right eye opened and gazed again at Rais Hamed.

The latter nodded to Bantok. The mate gestured. In a mass the nine men—Bantok joining them—climbed over the prostrate figure. They concealed it from sight. When they drew away, the manacles of Barak were joined at wrist and ankle, and he was again meshed within the metal net.

Six men lifted this net and carried it forward. Others made ready blocks and tackles, to which the net was fastened by hooks. In two minutes the net was hung beneath the level of the bowsprit, so that each dip of the schooner submerged the pendant figure.

It was this custom which had given rise to the story that Sheitan crouched in the bows of the Gazelle; sometimes Rais Hamed forgot during months at a time that anyone was confined there.

Two days had passed since the departure of Rais Hamed and the disappearance of Barak.

In vain did Lou-Lou threaten vengeance and make plans. Rais Hamed was gone to Zambanga, and with him the only craft of any size. To pursue the Gazelle across the ocean in fishing-boats would be an absurdity.

Fortesque was sick of the whole affair. He had come to hate this tropic island and everything connected with it, save Lou-Lou and Luke Quail.

On the third day Fortesque left the palace, went to the mission and worked for an hour for Luke Quail, then took himself off to the bazaar in search of some recreation.

As he passed from dark shop to dark shop, he heard his name called in a woman's voice.

Startled, he turned around. He had passed beyond the bazaar. The nearest house was one that had been recently white-washed, and looked unusually clean and sweet.

"Mr. Fortesque!" repeated the voice in languid accents. "Come inside, for I wish to speak with you."

Fortesque could see no one. The voice had come from this house, however. Mechanically, he entered. Astonishment was upon him at hearing a voice, a voice of his own kind. In this place? he did not pause to reflect, nor would reflection have done him much good. Behind him, out in the street, a singing palm-wine vendor saw him enter that house, and in five minutes all Sibuko knew that Tuan Fortesque was in that house of Cerise.

"I am so glad to meet you Mr. Fortesque," she said. "I have not had the opportunity of presenting myself at the palace, so far, but hope to do so soon. I am Cerise Delajoi."

Fortesque shook hands. "I did not know there was anyone else here—" he began, and she laughed.

"I had heard of you, monsieur. I saw you passing and committed an indiscretion. I had a purpose in wishing to see you."

Fortesque was not a fool by any means, but in this instance he had every excuse for being a fool. He had never heard of Cerise, and she had fooled better men than he.

"The Sultan apparently does not yet know that I am here," she said. "You see, I came only recently."

In this, Cerise was very much mistaken. Lou-Lou knew all about her, and in some detail.

Cerise went on to inform him that she was here on philanthropic errands. "I am interested in the Orphanage at Saigon," she said. "If I can persuade the Sultan to help me in the orphanage, it is very possible that much may be effected here."

"You'll not need my help," Fortesque declared. "You'll find Lou-Lou only too glad to do anything possible that will help her people. I am sure that she'll be delighted to learn that you are here."

A sardonic gleam flickered in her eye, and was gone.

"I hope so, monsieur. But you must allow me to offer you a little refreshment."

"Nothing," thank you," protested Fortesque.

"Ah, but this is something that I made with my own hands. It is a pistachio sherbet, which I invented myself; and it is a great pleasure."

A native woman brought in two silver goblets filled with a greenish sherbet.

"You must try my sherbet—" began Cerise, when there came a sudden interruption.

A shrill cry from the servant was echoed by a crash at the door of the house.

The startled Fortesque looked up, incredulous, to see Lou-Lou standing at the threshold of the room and gazing upon the scene intense before her.

Fortesque had never imagined that any woman could look so furious as did Lou-Lou in this amazing moment, yet very but intensified her beauty a thousandfold.

Her lapis eyes were dilated and black with anger, the gold flakes lending to them an iridescent sparkle.

A flush suffused her delicately carved features, lending them a passionate strength; her clenched hands were trembling, her bosom was rising and falling sharply beneath the gold-spangled silken robe.

Behind her, now, appeared palace guards with bared weapons.

"What are you doing in this house, talking with this poupee du diable?" she broke out.

"Why—this lady was asking me to use my influence with you to assist her."

"Ah!" said Lou-Lou, and the word stung like a whip. "Ah! I heard that you had entered this house; and I did not believe it. But now—what a touching scene I broke in upon!" Her eyes went suddenly to Cerise.

"You wanton!" she said softly.

"One must regretfully admit that the sultana Lou-Lou did not use the polite euphemisms of society."

Still Cerise said nothing at all. Her eyes, naturally large and helpless, were fascinated by those of Lou-Lou.

"Look here!" exclaimed Fortesque, shocked by the impolite terms. "You're away off the track, Lou-Lou! Mademoiselle Delajoi is engaged in charitable work for an orphanage in Saigon, and wants to start one here."

He paused, a little aghast. Despite her fury, Lou-Lou bit her lip. The brown men behind her, most of whom understood English, went into a broad grin at the words.

"Mr. Fortesque, please go back to the palace," said Lou-Lou.

"Eh? What do you mean to do?" The lapis eyes met his very calmly.

THE GUMPS—LOOK OUT FOR JIMMY VALENTINE

"? Nothing. I shall remain and speak with Mlle. Cerise for a moment; that is all." The sultana picked out one of her guards who spoke English very well. "Go with Tuan Fortesque, and tell him all about this woman—how Rais Hamed brought her here, and so forth. Are you going, sir?"

Lou-Lou took the seat which Cerise herself had recently vacated. Her glance fell upon the table. "What an admirable sherbet! It looks really cold and delicious! Come, sit down with me—I shall partake of your hospitality."

This was a new Lou-Lou, and not to be defied lightly. In her face he found no kindness, nothing but a very chilly resolution.

Fortesque loved and departed, and the brown guard fell in at his elbow. The door closed behind them.

"So you are Cerise? I have heard of you, and now I am glad to have seen you."

For a moment Cerise gazed at the greenish, melting ice, then glanced up at Lou-Lou. Her lips trembled; yet upon them lay the shadow of a smile—a very tender, fleeting shadow.

"I see," she said quietly. "It is because I entrapped your man, your playing, your poor soul who could not be tempted? Well, so much the worse."

She began to eat the sherbet.

Fortesque, meantime, went home to the palace. Enroute the brown man at his elbow told him a number of things about Cerise—some of them gained from personal experience, all of them authentic. When he reached home, Brian Fortesque was a thoughtful man.

For the remainder of the afternoon, the palace remained quite deserted. Fortesque dined alone. He asked for Luke Quail, and was informed that the old missionary had been summoned to conduct a funeral. He sought an interview with Lou-Lou, and the Sultana sent him back a note.

It read: "I warned you that when we got here you would see me as I am. It had not occurred to me that my view of you might be altered. I never thought that you were a fool—until today. I don't want to see you now."

LOU-LOU.

P. S. I'm not really angry. I'm just glad you didn't eat that sherbet.

Rais Hamed must have prepared the recipe.

Fortesque read and reread this note, in some perplexity.

"What the devil does it all mean?" he exclaimed. "I wish we were away from this confounded place! And what does this mean about the sherbet?"

He discovered the answer later, when Luke Quail, in some agitation, returned from the funeral of Cerise. Lou-Lou was now become sultana in fact as well as in name.

Continued Tomorrow.
